TROY (Bradford Co.) — Crowds were steady for the 2003 Bradford-Tioga Farm-City Day recently at Y-Run Farms, a 1,130-acre dairy farm located just outside of Troy.

This is the second year the two counties have worked together in an effort to promote understanding and tolerance among farmers, city dwellers, and the rural nonfarm public. This is the 12th year that the Tioga County committee has helped stage the event.

Owners Ron and Kathy Kline and their sons and wives, Glenn and Laurie and Gary and Nancy, and families believe that being good neighbors is important in any agricultural enterprise, and that belief is evident in the farm's mission statement.

The declaration reads, "We endeavor to be good stewards of God's creation and be an asset to the community through education and employment opportunities and good neighbor practices so that we can demonstrate the positive impact that good farming practices can bring to a community."

The family's focus on educational opportunities led them to host this year's event, attended by more than 1,000 visitors, according to co-chairperson Craig Williams.

Y-Run Farms was purchased in 1976 by Ron and Kathy. At that time they had 356 acres, of which 250 were tillable, and milked 80-100 Holsteins in a tiestall barn. In 1989, they purchased

Editor's note: Each year farmers are caught up in the complexity of farming. An understanding of the laws and the relationships built upon state and township regulations are crucial. Farmers are dealing with an ever-restrictive world, where nonfarmers — including many township officials — are dictating where to farm, how to farm, and why.

CATTLE: Compared to Thursday, slaughter steers sold mostly steady, instances firmer The supply included some well-fed stock, especially on Tuesday when high Choice and Prime steers sold for as high as 87.00-89.00; even the average Choice cattle are trading in the 80.00-83.00 range. You won't hear a lot of Producers complaining of the market as they are receiving nearly 20.00 more per hundred than they were at this time a year ago. However, packers are none to thrilled to be shelling out around 1100.00-1250.00 per head for the good kind. And, the market doesn't show very many signs of weakening as the Canadian border remains closed to all dressed and live beef products. This is very apparent in the futures markets as live cattle contracts from current to the winter months are trading at 76.00 or better, even after some or better losses on Tuesday; with the current August contract at 78.00. Meat markets are also on the rise, much like they were the last time live cattle prices got into the 80.00 range; with the light Choice cutout 1.90 higher on Tuesday at 138.60 with heavy Choice carcasses worth 138.60 after a 1.45 increase; the Choice cutout is over 7.00 higher than this time a week ago.

Slaughter Holstein steers sold fully steady on Tuesday, with a small test of slaughter heifers trending near steady as well Fleshier (65-80 percent lean) slaughter cows sold 1.00-1 50 lower, with sales up to 2.00 lower Lean slaughter cows sold weak to 1 50 lower Slaughter bulls sold near steady on the few that were comparable. The two-day run included 292 steers, 33 heifers, 357 cows, 18 bulls, with 20 head of feeder cattle.

Slaughter Steers: High Choice and Prime 2-4 1090-1490 lbs 82.00-85.00, fancy singles 1300-1450 lbs 85.50-89.00, couple heavy 1500-1520 lbs 78.50-79.25. Calves: Compared to Thursday's graded sale, slaughter calves sold mostly steady. Holstein bull calves suitable for special-fed veal barns sold sharply higher on Graded offerings weighing over 90 lbs, the greatest advance was noticed on the Graded Number Three Bull Calves which sold as high as 105.00; 60.00 higher than last week Buyer attendance and bidding activity was good, with Graded Number One Bull Calves selling as high as 180.00. Holstein heifers sold steady to weak on a light run. The PA Department of Agriculture graded 745 head of bulls and heifers for the graded sale, with an estimated 83 percent of the graded run going back on feed.

Veal Calves: Standard and Utility 60-115 lbs 15.00-30.00, weaker 5.00-12.00. Compared to Tuesday, a good run of high Choice and Prime slaughter steers sold steady to 1.00 higher. The bulk of the Choice supply sold mostly steady through the majority of the sale, with late sales trending up to 1.00 lower Select and low Choice steers sold weak to 1 00 lower with trade activity never really picking up on the lower quality stock; especially when compared to the active market early in the week. However, the quality of the supply is noticeably higher late in the week as there are still several farmer/feeders hauling finished steers to town that any high Choice and Prime buyer would like to have in his pen, with the higher quality cattle in heavier supply and demand earlier in the Thursday sale as several cuts sold up to 85 85 Also, one must remember that a steady market is not a bad thing when prices are as good as they are now, as even a slightly weaker market will still leave the bulk of the steers in the 80 00 money Holstein slaughter steers sold mostly steady, instances weaker on a good run that was comprised primarily of Select and low Choice cattle The slaughter heifer run was to light to test Fleshier (65-80 percent lean) cows sold 50-1 00 higher, with Lean slaughter cows trading steady to 50 higher Slaughter bulls sold 2 00-3 00 higher when compared to the light early week run The supply included 573 head of slaughter steers, 482 head slaughter cows, 56 slaughter heifers, 89 slaughter bulls, with 155 head of feeder cattle

Calves. Compared to Tuesday, slaughter calves sold steady to 2.00 lower Number One graded bull calves sold 2 00-3.00 higher in continued good demand. However, the Number Two and Three calves did note fare near as well as they did in the early week run Number Two graded bulls sold 10.00-60.00 lower, with the Number Three supply trending sharply lower. Demand remains relatively good for the higher quality calves as finished prices remain very good However, even with dressed prices at the 300.00 barrier, producers are still keeping a close eye on the Canadian border and the rising costs of feed ingredients, as most producers know the opening of the border or skyrocketing ingredient costs could quickly reduce any profits they have enjoyed over the past couple of months. An uneven supply of Holstein heifers sold with a lower undertone, although the quality was a lot plainer than the Tuesday run The PA Department of Agriculture graded 613 head of bull calves for the graded sale, with an estimated 87 percent of the graded run going back to feed

New Holland Slaughter Pig Auction

NEW HOLLAND, PA
August 6, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

SLAUGHTER PIGS: Receipts: 163; Last Week: 163; Year Ago: 608.

Compared to last week, a light run of slaughter pigs sold uneven; with Graded Number 1-2 selling mostly steady, Graded Number 2 sharply lower, and As-Is steady to firm. There were very few classes available at the Wednesday sale that were comparable to last week as the quality was below average. The supply was comprised of 3 percent as-is pigs. All pigs continue to go to slaughter as mandated until further notice. All pigs are graded on arrival, and sold on their in-weights; with prices below quoted per hundred weight.

New Holland Hog Auction

NEW HOLLAND, PA
August 4, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

Receipts: 746 Last Week: 733 Last Year: 1036.

Compared to last Monday, barrows and gilts sold steady, with sales as much as 3.00 lower. The quality of the run was below average, and included a noticeable increase in heavier hogs. Buyers seemed to show much more interest in owning heavier sows than they did the straight hogs, as a 600-700 pound sow will bring as much as 40.00. At the Sioux Falls terminal hog market on Monday 220-270 lb barrows and gilts sold from 38.00-38.50, with sows trading from 33.50-38.00. All hogs are sold by the hundred weights.

Percent Lean Weight Price 49-54 220-270 lbs 41.00-42.00, few up to 44.00 few 270-300 lbs 38.25-40.50 45-50 220-270 lbs 38.10-41.00 270-300 lbs 34.75-38.10, majority 36.25-38.10 300-375 lbs 32.10-34.10, single 35.50 40-45 220-270 lbs 36.25-38.60 few 270-300 lbs 32.00-35.25 300-375 lbs 31.00-32.10 400-450 lbs 31.00-33.50

Lancaster Farming reminds readers that market prices are the result of reports sent to the newspaper by various auctions or USDA reporting services. It would be impossible to check the accuracy of the approximately 115 markets that appear weekly. Editors have always been aware that inflated or inaccurate prices are of no service to anyone and have no place in this publication. Such reports are useless to our readers and take up vital editorial space.

Readers, though, who employ the services of an auction house might recognize incorrect reports from personal experience. When that occurs, please notify the auction house and send a copy, also, to our attention.

We thank you for your input and to auction houses for their cooperation.

Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO
August 6, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

Grain bids were higher for the day, while soybeans were mix. Wheat saw the most gains today due to the Egyptian purchase of 120,000 tons of soft white and red winter wheat. In the corn and soybean pits traders are keeping an eye on the weather as it remains the major focus. In the western corn-belt there is some moisture but there are spots where corn is stressed. Wheat was 7-10 cents higher. Corn 1-4 cents higher. Sorghum 2-4 cents higher. Soybeans was mix, from 2 cents lower to 2 cents higher.

CUSHIONED EGG

Electronic Drives
The innovative, electronically-controlled drive system enables eggs to be transported at a smooth, continuous speed on an endless conveyor with drive units located intermittently up to 150' apart.

Optimum Rod Spacing
Space between each cushioned rod is the key to egg separation and preventing smaller eggs from slipping through the conveyor while allowing all debris to be sifted out.

Design Flexibility
The unique "Cushioned Rod" egg conveyor enables you to custom design a system that gently transports eggs up, down, around corners and in a continuous straight line without transfer, and even declines to match processing equipment.

Custom Corners

ROD CONVEYOR TRANSPORT SYSTEM

Uni-Trac Construction
The "Cushioned Rod" egg conveyor is setting industry standards for efficiency. flexibility and cost savings with a unified construction design that eliminates the problems of egg transfer.

Rol-Link Chain System
An endless, custom designed, roller chain system and flexible cushioned plastic rods, cradle eggs in a gentle position that helps eliminate collisions and breakage.

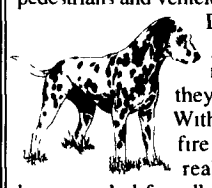
The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

AUGUST 11–17, 2003

FULL STURGEON MOON, AUGUST 12

EVERY DOG HAS ITS DAY

Although summer's Dog Days, traditionally the hottest days of the year, are thought to end on August 11, dalmatians are in the "hot seat" all year long. In the 1800s, when fire equipment was horse-drawn, each firehouse had dogs to help direct the horses and to alert pedestrians and vehicles that the fire wagon was coming.



Dalmatians were favored for this job because of their size, friendliness, health, and stamina—plus, they got along well with the horses. With the advent of gasoline-powered fire engines, the dalmatians weren't really needed any longer, but they became a kid-friendly symbol of the honorable profession of fire fighting. Today, dalmatians are common companions to firefighters.

The reason a dog has so many friends is that he wags his tail instead of his tongue.

TIP OF THE WEEK

BAKED SUMMER SQUASH

3 pounds yellow squash or zucchini
1/2 cup (1 stick) butter, melted
1/2 cup chopped onion
2 eggs, lightly beaten
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 cup fresh bread crumbs

Slice the squash. Boil or steam until tender. Drain, then mash. Preheat the oven to 375°F. In a mixing bowl, combine the squash with half the melted butter, the onion, eggs, sugar, salt, and pepper. Spoon into a 2-quart casserole dish. Combine the bread crumbs with the remaining butter and sprinkle over the squash. Bake for about 45 minutes and serve hot.

Makes 6 servings

Your power is OFF... and your generator DIDN'T start. Now your 40,000 Birds or 2,000 Pigs are DEAD.

Top 5 reasons why your generator may overheat and fail this summer...
- Low Coolant level – engine will not cool properly if coolant is below the core.
- Dirty radiator fins – must be free of dirt, dust, feathers, paper, or debris.
- Sufficient air intake – motorized shutters are strongly recommended.
- Improper coolant mix – 50/50 antifreeze and water will ensure max cooling from coolant.
- Faulty exhaust shutters – must open freely with no flow obstructions.

Here are the 5 things we'll do to help you prevent this disaster...
- We'll perform our "Generator Readiness Evaluation" worth $175 for FREE.*
- We'll detect your potential problems quickly with our trained technician team.
- We'll dispatch our technician with a service van stocked with the most popular service parts.
- We'll recommend a "Preventative Maintenance Program" that best suits your needs.
- We'll respond to emergencies you have 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

OPINION

Law And Relationships

What was it that Poor Richard (Ben Franklin) noted: the only things certain in life are death and taxes? Could he have meant death and "legislation"?

Farmers are forever caught up in the complexity of farming in an urbanized world. But how many of you understand the laws and the relationships built before those state and township regulations were enacted?

More than ever before, township officials are attempting to dictate exactly where to farm, how to farm, and why. So it's time for Lancaster Farming to introduce a new column by John Bell, counsel, governmental affairs with the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, called "Law of the Land." The column appears for the first time on page 1 this issue.

Bell's column will provide an update into the potential legal problems and benefits that may arise in the course of everyday agriculture.

The June 2003 issue of Agri Marketing Magazine includes a story about "CRMs." CRM stands for customer relationship management.

What is farming and industry more about, anymore, than relationships? In this world where anybody's past can come up as a result of an Internet search, there is little to hide.

In the case of business and CRM, the buzzword simply denotes keeping data on exactly what customers by and why. That "relationship" the CRM owners have on the data is similar to the local farm store when they know what kind of feed and supplies customers are looking for, and what they're willing to pay. It should be the same kind of relationship farmers have about what kind of decisions are going to be made by the different personalities down at the township office and throughout the corridors at the capitol.

Bell is scheduled, on a quarterly basis, to provide some updates and insight into developing legislative issues. But remember, the column in no way is a substitute for professional legal advice.

These, as the Chinese saying goes, could be considered "interesting times" indeed.

To Apply For The Century Farm Designation

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture is accepting applications for the Century Farm Program. To qualify the farm must be owned by the same family for 100 consecutive years to the date of the application. A family member must live on the farm on a permanent basis. Additionally, the farm must consist of at least 10 acres of the original holdings or gross more than $1,000 annually from the sale of farm products. This program honors the family farm and the rural traditions of Pennsylvania that are important for the continued growth of the commonwealth.

For applicants in Lancaster County, information about the program, applications, and assistance in filling out the application may be obtained from the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension Office at (717) 394-6851. Century Farm nominees from Lancaster County whose applications are processed by Oct. 1 will be honored at the Lancaster County Farm-City Ag-Chamber Banquet on Nov. 24.

For Century Farm applicants in other counties, applications and assistance can be obtained directly from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture at (717) 787-5085. The application is also available on the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture Website (www.agriculture.state.pa.us).

To Prevent Fly Problems In Livestock Production Using IPM

Much of the livestock industry in Pennsylvania is located near urban residents who do not appreciate having flies in their backyard and homes. During the summer months, homeowners spend a lot of their time outdoors and the reproduction rate of flies is the highest. This makes management efforts to control flies very crucial to good neighbor relations.

Regional poultry agent Gregory Martin points out that integrated pest management or IPM is not really a new concept. Farmers who have adopted IPM controls in their crops have been successful at controlling insect pests while reducing the overall cost of pest control. Livestock producers too can use this program as well to help both in reducing the amounts of chemicals used to control insects while timing the use of spraying and other control methods to optimize their effects in reducing fly populations. The cornerstone of this approach is to use best management practices (BMPs) on the farm that actually helps keep populations from growing out of hand.

A key feature of fly IPM on the farm is the use of scouting to determine the types of flies and number of flies present. "Spec" cards are 3 x 5 inch white cards that can be hung throughout the livestock building to help determine fly outbreaks. Fly spec counts that reach more than 50 on one half of the card are considered high counts. These cards should be changed weekly and tallied so that fly numbers can be monitored on the farm on a constant basis.

The use of sticky tape exposed for short durations also can be used to determine fly counts as well as the type of flies that are in the area.

Controlling the environment is crucial to the success of a Livestock IPM program. Flies that do not have food or water resources will quickly die out or move on. Since most feedstocks contain some form of protein, there are many potential feeding sites on a farm. By controlling water and feed spillage along with drying the manure or litter, managers can go a long way toward fly control. Other areas to watch are the compost areas and feed bins near livestock housing.

Manure and bedding should be handled in a way which helps reduce fly numbers prior to spreading. Tarping manure piles for 14 days prior to spreading and the use of stacking sheds to lower moisture content have been successful in poultry operations. Spread materials according to your nutrient management plans and try to get the manure into the growing zone. Spot check the fields to determine if successful incorporation of the materials has been achieved.

When it is time for fly population control, try to match the severity of the cure to the level of the population encountered. At times a "knockdown" spray may be called for, while with lower populations, natural insect predators could be used.

With flies in the household/back yard, it is important to read and use controls appropriate to the location. Fly traps are very effective in catching insects but are best used 30-50 feet away from the house to help draw them away. Fly electrocution devices are best used in closed housing ("zappers"). With any controls, please read, understand and follow all instructions that come with your fly control sprays and devices.

Good IPM doesn't require extraordinary efforts, but you will get out of it what you put into it. As with all other management programs on the farm, the better you are at it the more it pays in the long run.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

BAD NEWS AND GOOD NEWS

Background Scripture:
Joel 1 through 2.
Devotional Reading:
Acts 2:14-23.

I have never witnessed a truly serious natural disaster. We read about them and see images of them on TV, but unless we have personally experienced one of them, it is difficult to really identify with them.

The prophetic occasion for Joel is an unprecedented plague of locusts that engulfed the land of Israel, devouring its plant life and plunging the nation into a dangerous famine. We can hardly appreciate just how devastating they can be. Joel paints a picture of the tragic extent: "What the cutting locust left, the swarming locust has eaten. What the swarming locust left, the hopping locust has eaten, and what the hopping locust has left, the destroying locust has eaten" (1:4).

Our society has become so technological society that we forget about our dependence upon the living earth. We need to be reminded from time to time that milk actually originates in cows, not pasteboard cartons, and green beans did not germinate and grow in our freezers. Dwight E. Stevenson says that "If a plague like that pictured in Joel should assail America, the people of our cities would be starving in a few weeks."

Dependent Upon God

Joel used this devastating plague to get their attention with the bad and good news of God. Disaster impresses upon us the fact of our dependence. This is particularly sobering to us because we think we are quite independent of God. Disasters help us to realize that we are not as self-sufficient as we assume. Our arrogant pride is humbled by this realization. Joel shocks them into acknowledging their dependence upon God.

Joel is also uses this occasion to remind people that God is their judge. This should not be so startling for any of us — but it often is. When things are going well for us either as individuals or nations — we forget about God's judgment because we think it is intended for others, not us. We assume that God is as satisfied with us as we are! When we are most self-satisfied, our arrogant pride is almost unimaginable.

In Joel 3:2, Joel speaks of the "valley of Jehoshaphat." This is not a real place but an allegory of God's judgment for the name means "Yahweh has judged." All of us will have to journey through a valley of Jehoshaphat, because we ignore sin's long-term consequences, especially when it seems that we have quietly gotten away with them.

Rend Your Hearts

So Joel makes an impassioned plea for repentance: "Yet even now," says the Lord, "return to me with all your heart, with fasting, with weeping, and with mourning; and rend your hearts and not your garments'" (2:12-13).

What God demands is sincere repentance, not just rituals and empty words. It is easy to say "I'm sorry," (well, not for everyone), but it is a lot harder to repent because repentance may involve words, but it goes a long way beyond. "Return to the Lord, your God, for he is gracious and merciful, slow to anger and abounding in steadfast love. . . ." (v.13b).

Joel's good news is that the Day of the Lord will mean three important changes in the world. First, there will be a renewal of nature: "The threshing floors shall be full of grain, the vats shall overflow with wine and oil. I will restore to you the years which the swarming locusts has eaten. . . ." (2:24,25). Secondly, the human spirit will also be renewed. This will be a spiritual renewal: "And it shall come to pass afterward that I will pour out my spirit on all flesh; your sons and daughter shall prophesy, your old men shall dream dreams, and your young men shall see visions. . . ." (2:28).

Finally, there will be the advent of international justice. Human beings always forget or overlook the fact that God is passionately concerned with justice. "Let the nations bestir themselves. And come up to the valley of Jehoshaphat; for there I will sit to judge all the nations round about" (3:12) If we will respond to it, God's good news is always infinitely better than his bad news is bad.

Pennsylvania Forage And Grassland Conference Set For March 5-6

Irish Brothers, Genetic Researcher On Slate

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin Co) — This year's Pennsylvania Forage and Grazing Conference will take place March 5 and 6 at the Holiday Inn in Grantville.

This conference has something for forage producers and graziers at all levels of experience. The conference is sponsored jointly by the PFGC, the Pennsylvania Grazing Research and Education Center, Pennsylvania's Grazing Lands Conservation Initiative, and Penn State Extension.

The first day of the conference kicks off with brothers John and Tom Roche. John works as a grazing researcher/consultant in New Zealand, and Tom manages the home dairy farm in Ireland. These brothers have recently been exploring the possibilities of starting a grazing dairy here in the U S Over the course of the conference they will discuss "hands on" experiences as well as differences, similarities, and opportunities of grass farming in the U S and around the world

Other talks on the first day will include topics such as animal genetics for grazing (sure to stimulate discussion), effectiveness of equipment to speed hay drying, keeping and using accurate farm records, large rectangular bale storage and marketing, and health concerns of animals on pasture.

Dr Steve Washburn from North Carolina State University will be leading the discussion on animal genetics for grazing The evening of the first day will include discussion sessions between attendees and speakers.

The second day of the conference starts with a look at grazing and family life, impact of the Farm Bill and new regulations on forage and grazing farms, and pasture maintenance Presentations include recognizing the challenges of grassfed beef, farmer health concerns, and farm liability The day continues with a presentation by the Roche brothers on grazing opportunities in the Northeast. The conference will conclude with a brief "wrap up" session and awarding of door prizes.

Producers will give many of the presentations during the two-day conference

The PFGC will conduct its annual reception and awards program Wednesday evening, followed by informal discussions with the day's presenters.

The conference will also include a trade show, with com-

Jersey/Holstein Crossbreeds Turn Grass Into Milk On Berks County Farm

OLEY (Berks Co) — Nevin Mast has been crossbreeding Holsteins and Jerseys for about 10 years

"I just like the cross so well," the dairyman said during a pasture walk on his organically certified farm last September

Mast hosted about a dozen farmers who were interested in seeing his grazing operation. Joining the group was Mena Hautau, Berks County extension agent, and Dr Steve Washburn, a dairy researcher from North Carolina State University

Grass and hay are the main source of feed for the 50 cows on Mast's 110-acre farm He supplements milking cows with 12-14 pounds of grain per day Heifers between the age of four months and their first calving receive no grain.

Advantages of the Holstein/Jersey cross include easier breeding and calving, hybrid vigor, and greater survivability, according to Mast and Washburn

"The biggest gains are in the survivability traits," said Washburn, who studies the benefits of crossbreeding in dairy herds. He predicted that crossbreeds will have an increasing impact on commercial dairy production in the future

Washburn is one of the speakers slated for the upcoming Pennsylvania Forage and Grazing Conference scheduled for March 5 and 6 in Grantville

A typical average first-conception rate for purebred Holsteins when using artificial insemination is between 30 and 40 percent In crossbreeds, that number can reach nearly 50 percent, according to Washburn.

Washburn said dairy farmers need to have a plan when it comes to crossbreeding The plan should include research ing the fertility of the daughters of bulls used in the crossbreeding program, and knowing the bulls' production data. While hardiness and reproductive traits are important, production must be a primary goal.

As Washburn put it, "Milk still pays the bills."

In crossbred cows, production levels tend toward the higher-producing breed, he noted

While Jersey and Holstein genetics make up the main part of the gene pool on Mast's farm , he also enjoys experimenting with different types of crossbreeding. For example, Mast said he recently purchased a White Park bull to breed to some of his heifers

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co) — Project Grass is on the move.

Last year, the grassroots, grassland management group expanded to include every region of Pennsylvania, and has been at work developing new programs to foster grass-based farming and conservation practices in the state.

Last November marked the first-ever Project Grass Conference More than 100 people attended the two-day event at State College

The conference included presentations on the history of Project Grass — first formed in Southwest Pennsylvania in 1980, research findings on the economic and environmental benefits of livestock grazing

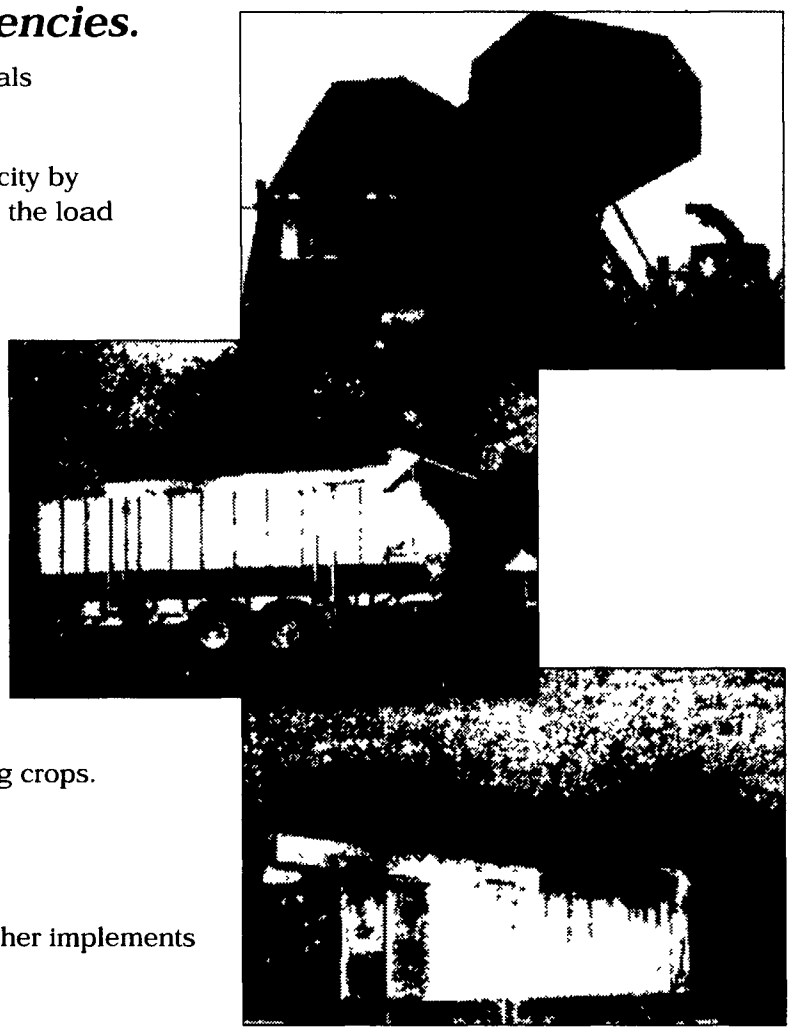
Introducing the
Chopper Hopper®
Innovative truck bodies & trailers.

Exclusive design efficiencies.

- Transports a wide array of materials
- Rapid unloading
- Hydraulically roof increases capacity by compressing the forage and seals the load for transport
- Hydraulic roof boosts efficiency by eliminating material overspill and deflects product into open body, reducing stress on opertors involved
- Easy loading from dump wagons and wheel loaders
- Hydraulic tailgate speeds unloading and functions well with dumping stations
- Rugged construction and industrial planetary drive.
- Low soil compaction for harvesting crops.
- Capacity up to 65 cubic yards



Options:

- Interchangeable mounting with other implements such as manure tanks
- Onboard weighing systems
- Truck or trailer configuration

East Fluid Milk And Cream Review

Madison, Wis.
August 6, 2003
Report Supplied by USDA

SPOT PRICES OF CLASS II CREAM, dollars per lb butterfat: F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: 1.6836-1.8910. Delivered Equivalent: Atlanta: 1.6836-1.9032 mostly 1.7324-1.8544.

PRICES OF CONDENSED SKIM, dollars per lb. wet solids, F.O.B. producing plants. Northeast: Class II, includes monthly formula prices: .8500-.9300. Class III, spot prices: 1.0300-1.1500.

SPOTS SHIPMENTS OF GRADE A MILK: FLORIDA: This Week: In 61, Out 0; Last Week In 38, Out 0; Last Week In 52, Out 0. SOUTHEAST STATES: This Week: In 0, Out 0; Last Week In 0, Out 0; Last Week In 0, Out 0.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Due to changes in milk supply agreements, milk import/export totals are not directly comparable to year ago figures and to shipments prior to April 1, 2003.

The following are the July 2003 Class and component prices under the Federal Milk Order pricing system: Class II $10.63 (up $0.17 from June), Class III $11.78 (up $2.03); and Class IV $9.95 (up $0.19). The following are the product price averages used in computing Class prices: butter $1.1196, NDM $0.8072, cheese $1.3497, and dry whey $0.1470. The Class II butterfat price is $1.2125 and the Class III/IV butterfat price is $1.2055.

Milk production continues to decline in the Southeast and, to a lesser degree, the Northeast. Heavy rains have plagued large areas of the Southeast and up the East Coast. The rains generally brought lower temperatures, but the resulting muggy weather is stressing the cows, further reducing milk output. The Northeast is also seeing more rain this week, but the impact on the milk flow is not yet known. Fat and protein tests on incoming milk remain low.

Demand for bottled milk is mostly steady in the Northeast, but improving in the Southeast where some schools opened this week. Many schools in the Southeast will reopen next week and bottlers are preparing to fill the pipelines. Florida handlers are importing more milk this week and contacts expect volumes to increase during the coming weeks. Surplus milk volumes are generally light and easily cleared. Some producers of condensed skim comment that with Class III wet solids prices so high, they have to step up drying schedules to clear the skim. The August Class III skim milk price is estimated to be well over $9.00, up sharply from July's $7.83, up $1.93 from June.

Producers often base their condensed skim prices on estimates and then make adjustments after the price is official. Class II condensed skim sales are about steady, but mostly contractual. As one contact put it, 'you can't sell a pound of Class III at current prices."

The Fluid cream market remains firm. Supplies are tight and local suppliers are reaching to out-of-region producers to find loads and prices are often higher. Also, with more milk being shipped into the Florida and other Southeastern states, tanker availability is an issue. Conversely, with California cream as tight as it is, tankers on this route are readily available. Demand is good, but buyers do balk at the current high multiples for spot loads. Multiples in the 150's are not uncommon.

Ice cream production is seasonally heavy. However, as the summer draws to an end, ice cream producers are planning on easing schedules back to school year levels. Cream cheese output is about steady. Churning activity is light to moderate.

Organic dairy production will be a highlight of the Sept. 20 Lancaster Farming Dairy Plus booklet.

Scheduled: features on organic dairy farms and strategies for success in organic milk production from university. In addition, news and information from the breed associations and cooperatives.

Average Farm Feed Costs for Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

An employee was hired to manage that facility. The partnership between Ron and his two sons was formed in 1990. When a 300-acre neighboring property became available in 1996, the partners jumped at the chance to expand their land base to prepare for a herd expansion.

On November 25, 1997 they started milking in a double 12-parallel parlor. They have continued improvements, adding a manure storage pit, additional feed storage, and converting the stall barn into a hospital and dry cow facility.

In completing the expansion, the Kline family set specific goals, both for the farm and personal, that they strive to reach. One is that they want to milk approximately 350 cows, shipping 26,000 to 30,000 pounds of milk each day. Others involve animal health focusing on a low somatic cell counts and bacteria levels. They also list developing a positive working environment and lifestyle goals for the family, while allowing for future generations to be involved in the enterprise.

Besides the milking herd, the farm also is home to 325 head of young stock, which are all started in a greenhouse barn before being moved to a heifer facility.

Each partner oversees a portion of the enterprise. Ron is the senior partner and general manager. Glenn is the herdsman and Gary is the crop and equipment manager and personnel manager. They now have four full-time employees and eight part-time employees.

During Farm-City Day, participants had the opportunity to watch the Klines milk in the parlor and could see the various animal housing facilities, manure storage area, and feed areas. They also watched as a self-propelled chopper devoured a field of hay.

Other activities were also available. A neighbor took visitors on a horse-pulled wagon around the farm, there were sheep shearing demonstrations, butter making, a petting zoo, and a pedal tractor pull for the children.

Officials from various farm enterprises were on hand to answer questions, and the dairy princess booth was a popular site.

Food vendors set up shop in the equipment shed, offering chicken barbecue hot dogs and other tasty treats.

Children had the opportunity to meet calves, goats, kittens and bunnies up close that he annual event. Here Tivon Liguori, 16 months, of Waverly sits on Wendy Liguori's lap while Monica Kneller shows one of her rabbits.

Chester County 4-H'ers Use Sale Earnings For Education

NICKI LEFEVER
Special Correspondent

HONEY BROOK (Chester Co.) — Eliza Walton and Tom Marsh, two Chester County 4-H'ers, look forward to starting their freshman year as animal science majors at Penn State University at the end of the month.

They don't look forward to using their hard-earned money to pay for it, but they will.

"All the money I have right now is going toward paying for college," 18-year-old Marsh said.

The Chester County 4-H Livestock Sale at the Romano 4-H Center was the last for Walton and Marsh.

Walton's Angus steers Stormy and Fluffy won grand champion and reserve grand champion market steer, respectively.

"I am so proud of Stormy," the 18-year-old said. Stormy, a 1,192-pound Angus steer, was homebred on the Walton family's 60-head beef farm in Kennett Square. Hoss's Steak and Seahouse purchased the steer for $2,622.40.

Fuzzy, the 1,172-pound Angus steer, was sold to Kenny Beiler, representing Hoober Inc., Intercourse, for $1,406.40.

This is Walton's seventh year showing. She said she wouldn't miss the steers.

"They were nice steers, but I'll get new ones next year," she said.

Marsh, 18, competed against 50 others. He is in his 12th year showing. Marsh said he is sad he will watch from the sidelines next year.

His 248-pound grand champion market swine, who placed over 130 other hogs, sold to Hatfield for $744. Marsh will leave his family's four-acre crop farm in Honey Brook with hopes of becoming an extension agent.

Other show champions include Julia Howe, 18, of Downingtown; Levi Wensel, 10, of Morgantown; and Laura Maguire, 13, of Coatseville.

Howe, who lives on a turkey farm, will save her profit or use it for a mission trip to Gutemala. Her reserve grand champion

swine went for $687 to Hoss's Steak and Seahouse.

Miss Boots helped Howe place her highest in 11 years in 4-H, but Howe said she is done with pigs.

Levi only has two or four sheep at a time and one year of showing under his belt, but his 6-month-old Suffolk lamb, Buttercup, took grand champion market lamb over 26 others and was purchased by Ken Smoker for $514.50.

"My lamb was shy and sometimes hard to work with," he said. "She just followed my sister's lamb Jacob."

Levi said it took a while to set in, but when he realized he won, he was really excited.

Laura Maguire thinks lambs are cute, so she decided to raise them for the first time this year. Little Sheep, her reserve grand champion market lamb, sold to John Rock Inc. for $261.25.

"I have been raising pigs for the last five years," she said. "I think I just got lucky with the lamb."

According to extension agent Cheryl Fairbairn, the livestock sale was the largest in Chester County for steer and swine in recent years.

Averages for the show were 19 steer averaged $1.16 per pound; 130 hogs averaged $1.48 per pound; 28 lambs averaged $2.83 per pound; and two goats averaged $6.00 per pound.

Red And White Fever

Myers manages a milking herd of 75 cows here on Myerose Farm. Three-fourths of them are Red and White, and all the black and white Holsteins in the herd carry the red factor gene.

Myers started building the Red and White herd in the early 1970s. His dad, Sam, had milked Guernseys on the farm prior to Kenny stepping into herd management.

Beside the increasing presence of the breed in the U.S., Kenny said there is a particularly strong demand for Red and Whites in Europe and South America.

Of his cow preferences, Myers said, "I like the good black ones if they have the red factor."

Convention-goers also toured Cyagra/Em Tran, and participated in numerous other activities, including a silent auction, awards banquet, and the annual meeting of the Red and White Dairy Cattle Association.

Oklahoma Feeder Cattle Weekly

Oklahoma City, OK
August 6, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

OKLAHOMA NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Weekly Cattle Summary — Compared to last week: Feeder steers over 700 lbs 1.00-3.00 higher. Feeder heifers steady to 2.00 higher. Demand very good for feeders, especially steers suitable for northern trade. Steer and heifer calves and light yearlings steady with good demand. Oklahoma has been dry since end of June but few scattered showers occurred last week and front part of this week. Pattern will turn dry again Wednesday. Many pastures have deteriorated rapidly during July and moisture is badly needed with rainfall totals 12 inches behind normal in much of the state. Receipts at Oklahoma City some 20,000 above year ago as summer marketings continue to add to the count due to dry weather and tremendous market.

Receipts this week 12,870; last week 14,600; last year 6930. Supply consisted of 76% yearlings over 600 lbs; 21% calves; 3% cows bulls. Heifers comprised 26% of feeder & calf supply.

Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

National Feeder Cattle Weekly Review

St. Joseph, Mo.
August 1, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

NATIONAL FEEDER & STOCKER CATTLE SUMMARY - Week Ending Aug. 1 —Total Receipts: 375,200; last week 597,200; last year 238,500. Direct: 137,200; last week 118,500; last year 70,200. Video/Internet: 4,300; last week 261,800; last year 200. Auctions: 233,700, last week 216,900; last year 168,100. This week's reported auction volume included 45 pct over 600 lbs and 43 pct heifers.

Compared to last week, feeder cattle trended 1.00-3.00 higher. Stocker cattle sold steady to 3.00 higher, with some isolated weakness in drought areas. Feeder cattle and heavy weight calves bound for feedlots showed a more consistent trend as feedlots push to keep pens filled.

Recent advances in the slaughter cattle market, boxed beef prices, and CME Futures prices, along with corresponding profits in the industry have helped push the feeder cattle market higher. The current finished cattle prices, which are abnormally high for this time of the year, has injected much needed equity back into the cattle industry.

Localized stocker calf prices tend to be more dependent on pasture conditions. Auctions in dry regions reported some resistance to higher prices on calves early in the week, but increasing finished cattle prices again this week pushed stocker prices higher at late week sales even in those areas. Receipts in dry areas and adjacent states continue to increase as pasture conditions deteriorate and the current price structure entices feeders to markets. Several auctions are running twice the receipts than they had a year ago. Volume in the Northern Plains and mountain states continues at seasonal lows as these areas enjoy normal pasture conditions.

Loads of yearlings, that were normally destined to go directly to feedlots, are starting to appear at several Midwest auctions because of the current price structure.

Eastern Cornbelt Direct Feeder Cattle Weekly

Springfield, Ill.
August 1, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

Eastern Cornbelt Direct Feeder Cattle Summary — Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Ohio: Compared to last week, feeder cattle were mostly 1.00-4.50 higher. Demand and trading activity were moderate. The stronger slaughter cattle market, the continued ban on Canadian cattle and tight feeder cattle supplies supported prices. Reported sales consisted of about 58% beef steers, 38% heifers and 4% Holstein steers. Approximately 86% of the cattle marketed this week weighed over 600 lbs. Confirmed sales 1300 this week, 1000 last week and 900 last year.

FEEDER STEERS: Medium and Large 1-2: load lot 565 lbs 98.00; 700-900 lbs 86.00-88.50; load lot 985 lbs 77.50.

Success Strategies Vary At Reading Fair Sheep Show

NICKI LEFEVER
Special Correspondent

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Amanda Miller and her Southdown ewe have something in common — they are both queens.

"She (Queeny) was crowned queen today," Amanda's mom, Joan said after a friend picked the name for Queeny on the spot.

Queeny is the grand champion ewe and Amanda is the reigning 2003 Berks County Lamb and Wool Queen.

Amanda is no stranger to sheep showing. The 18-year-old grew up on her family's sheep farm in Bernville and has been raising and breeding sheep for 15 years, she said.

Amanda said she knew Queeny would fair well because she placed high as a lamb. Her secret to success is experience.

"I go to a lot of fairs and I am used to being in the show ring," she said. "I know my animals' flaws and I work with them."

Other winners at the show include 12-year-old Mallory Ketterer, Bernville; 11-year-old Shelby Rarick, Fleetwood; and 10-year-old Jere Essig, Bernville.

Mallory is raising sheep in suburbia, her mom Jo-Ann said. She raises 12 sheep on land they rent from a farmer behind their house. Her Border Leicester, Zeke, won grand champion ram. Mallory said she was pleased with the results, but her mom said she was surely stunned.

"I know (Mallory) thought she was in last place," Jo-Ann Ketterer said.

In Shelby Rarick's third year showing, she only brought two sheep from her family's Fleetwood beef farm to the show. Beyonce, her ewe, won grand champion market lamb. Shelby was calm and collected and said her secret to success was walking the sheep 10 to 15 minutes everyday.

Jere Essig was full of excitement when he found out his market lamb, Dusty, became the reserve grand champion market lamb.

He said raising sheep on his family's pig and sheep farm is a lot of work. His routine includes walking them everyday and shaving and washing them every weekend.

"It's worth it," he said.

Marlyn Stroh judged the sheep and said a few times it was hard to choose the winner and other times he had no problem. He said there might not be a lot of competition in each of the classes, but overall he was finding the kind of individuals he liked to handle.

PIT POWER

Farmers and composters - Here is a breakdown for compost and manure pits and manure piles! Pit Power is bacteria and bacteria feeders that break down solids in manure pits and septic tanks and breakdown compost faster
Clean out your pit with ease, use Pit Power! One gallon of Pit Power per 10,000 to 20,000 gal. of pit volume Should be repeated approx 2 times a year! If aeration of the pit is possible, it will help the bacteria to grow and work faster to break down solids Pit Power's purpose is to add life (bacteria) in the manure, which then is returned to the soil where a bacteria is working. The smell of pit manure is not so strong Pit Power is a nontoxic product - Life to Feed Life!

Price is $58.00 per gallon
(6 gal or more - $55 per gallon) Full UPS fee will be charged if payment is not with order Send orders to

PLANNING AHEAD FOR PASTURE CONVERSION

Berks County
Cooperative Extension

Producers are looking to convert select acres or whole farms to pasture for intensive grazing, horse production, or livestock and exotic animal production. Before any seed is sown or fence built, here are some items for consideration that should work into a plan of action.

• Evaluate the soil types on the farm. Get ahold of a USDA Soil Survey for your county. Find your farm on the soil map, identify the soils and become aware of the strengths and limitations of your site. Avoid conversion of wetlands to pastures. If the soils are wet or droughty, plan for the grasses and animal traffic patterns adapted to your soil type. Once the total number of acres devoted to pasture is known, the stocking rate, especially the upper limit, can be figured.

• Take a soil test and become knowledgeable about what you need to do to bring soil fertility to optimum production. The need for high soil fertility is relative in the northeastern U.S. But in southeast Pennsylvania, where land values and animal stocking rates tend to be high, good fertility is needed to have a productive pasture. Soils that have been farmed in rotation for a long time with manure can have medium to very high levels of fertility, especially phosphorous and potassium. Cropland that has a history of renting can have low pH and low fertility. The soil test result will help with the decision to add soil amendments, especially lime, before any seed is planted.

• Know the crop history. A piece of land with an unknown cropping history can hide limitations. If triazine herbicides have been used for corn production, the field may not be able to be seeded. If possible, try to obtain knowledge about the pesticide history from the former operator. The Penn State Agronomy Guide can assist with understanding any herbicide restrictions. Another consideration is noxious, woody or poisonous weeds. They may need to be controlled one year ahead of renovation, especially where these weeds have taken over rented crop ground or old hay stands.

• Fencing and facilities. Plan on paper for any facility and fencing layout before anything is built or rebuilt. Facilities should be placed away from any streams, wetlands, or wet areas. Manure should not be stored near the well or streams. Home septic mounds should be kept separate from any of the pastured or facility areas.

Lay out paddocks on paper first, and then flag out your permanent fencing lines and laneways to visually see where the fencing and water lines should go. (This also helps to control costs by analyzing feet of fencing or water lines needed.) Ideally, each paddock should be about one acre in size. Lanes should be sized to fit machinery. Finally, barn and fencing contractors should use specific traffic laneways on the farm to prevent rutting or compacting pastures.

• Economics. Are you a producer who is depending on this conversion to increase profitability, or are you a part-time producer who has other income sources? Establish goals and figure out the cost to make the change. Consider dry matter output, winter feed costs, infrastructure costs such as fencing and machinery, and variable costs such as seed. Penn State has several fact sheets on Alternative Agriculture Enterprises that can help with understanding these costs.

Field Day Focuses On Manure Management

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Manure was the theme of the day and, judging by the size of the crowd, it's a hot topic.

An estimated 250 people turned out Thursday for the manure handling and nutrient management field day at Oregon Dairy Farm north of Lancaster. The event was sponsored by Binkley & Hurst Bros., the farm equipment dealer near Lititz.

Ken Ferrie, professional crop consultant from Illinois and field agronomist for Farm Journal, spoke on the increasing importance of good manure management.

Field day visitors check out a piece of equipment designed to boost manure incorporation in the soil. Rotating tines aerate the soil, allowing faster nutrient uptake.

According to Ferrie, good manure management not only helps livestock producers take care of the environment and be good neighbors, it also increases their profitability.

Farmers can no longer afford to ignore public concerns about manure issues, he pointed out.

"The more we keep our head in the sand, the bigger a target we become to our neighbors," Ferrie said.

Good nutrient management practices first of all depend on knowing how soil works. That was the topic of Ferrie's first presentation.

"Know your soil test," he said, noting that results will vary from test to test and lab to lab. For that reason, farmers should "stay consistent with the same lab" for their soil-testing needs.

The ability of crops to use nutrients is dependent on a number of qualities in the soil. These include organic matter content, pH, cation exchange capacity, and

Raw Milk Sales Still Allowed By Permit

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — In an attempt to address concerns regarding Pennsylvania's raw milk regulations, Secretary of Agriculture Dennis Wolff recently reaffirmed that there are no planned changes in the policy.

"It has come to my attention that there are concerns about the sale of raw milk in Pennsylvania," said Wolff. "There are no current or planned actions by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture to remove a dairy farmer's right to sell raw milk or a consumer's right to buy raw milk. Now, as before, all persons wishing to sell raw milk must receive a permit from the department."

The sale of raw milk in Pennsylvania is permitted under the Pennsylvania Milk Sanitation Law. This law is designed to safeguard human health and safety by regulating the issuance of permits, and those entities that sell milk and milk products. This law also prohibits the sale of raw milk products, with the exception of aged hard cheese, that is cured at temperatures of not less than 35 degrees Fahrenheit for at least 60 days.

"These laws are designed to help insure that milk and milk products sold in Pennsylvania are safe and wholesome for the entire family," said Wolff.

Land Use, Property Meeting Aug. 13

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — A meeting on Land Use and Nearby Property Values will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. on Aug. 13 at the Berks County Agricultural Center, five minutes north of the Reading Airport, just west of Rt. 183.

The speakers will review a Penn State study on "The Impact of Open Space and Potential Local Disamenities on Residential Property Values in Berks County."

The speakers include Dr. Richard Ready, assistant professor, and Dr. Charles Abdalla, associate professor of agricultural and environmental economics at Penn State University. They will review their study which used information on 8,000 Berks County homes sold between 1998 and 2002 along with nearby land uses, and will discuss the findings and future impacts and considerations.

For more information or directions, contact Clyde Myers, Penn State Cooperative Extension in Berks County, at (610) 378-1327. The meeting is open to the public and is important to real estate professionals and county and local officials.

CIRCULATION FANS CAN HELP REDUCE HEAT STRESS

Dan F. McFarland
Extension Agent — Agricultural Engineer
York

After providing shade and an adequate air exchange, air movement can be beneficial by reducing heat stress in dairy cattle. Air moving across a cow's body can improve the rate of heat loss from her body and also aid in evaporation of moisture from her skin. Circulation fans in the animal space accomplish this by mixing air and minimizing "hot spots."

To help reduce heat stress during hot weather, proper selection, placement, and operation of circulation fans is important. Studies indicate that an air speed of 220-440 feet per minute (2.5-5 mph) is necessary to be beneficial for dairy cattle. Most circulation fans are able to produce air velocities greater than this for a distance of approximately 10 times their diameter (24-inch diameter — 20 feet; 36-inch diameter — 30 feet, etc.).

However, the guard design, blade design, motor size, and blade speed all affect performance. Dust and dirt build up on the blade and guards can also greatly affect performance.

Some fan manufacturers claim "their" fans are able to move air in the 2-5 mph range for up to 20 times the diameter. However, my evaluation of these fans (with cows in the area) indicates that the spacing should be no more than 15 times the diameter.

Cows influence the effective air movement. Air leaving the fans strikes standing cows and creates a "wind shadow," or an area of little air movement for cows that are downstream. Spacing the fans 10 times their diameter or less (in the direction of airflow) usually provides uniform, effective air movement.

In naturally ventilated shelters, the direction of airflow should follow the predominant prevailing winds during warm weather. However, if quality fans are placed as recommended, performance is still acceptable when breezes come from the opposite direction. Circulation fans are usually installed with the bottom 7-8 feet above the cow alley (out of cow and equipment reach) and tilted 20 degrees to 30 degrees downward.

Circulation fans should be placed in the areas where the cows spend the most time, the resting area, feeding area, and the milking area. In tiestall barns, a single row over each stall row is adequate. Freestall and loose housing systems generally require multiple rows of fans.

Typical recommendations for freestall shelters place fans over each stall row and at the feeding area. Sometimes a single row of fans is used over head to head rows of freestalls. However, in these head-to-head arrangements, the fans should be spaced no further than 8 times their diameter to provide adequate airflow.

In tiestall shelters, fans are usually placed above the front third of the stall. When sidewall fans and perimeter inlets are used to provide an air exchange, some fan suppliers suggest that fans above one stall row move air in one direction while the other row moves in the opposite direction to circulate the air more evenly. However, circulation fans used in conjunction with tunnel ventilation systems should encourage airflow in one direction — toward the exhaust fans.

Circulation fans are useful when the temperatures go above 70 degrees Fahrenheit (F) (or so) in the animal area. Thermostats or sensors with NEMA 4 enclosures should be installed in the animal area and kept clean to accurately sense the conditions.

During periods of hot weather, circulation fans improve the cow's ability to get rid of heat at night. Research at the University of Missouri found that core temperature of a cow could be reduced up to 1 degrees F by using circulation fans to aid cooling at night compared to using fans during the day only.

The most effective heat stress abatement systems use circulation fans along with spray or evaporative cooling during hot weather.

Lebanon Youth Parade Champions At The Main Event

'Major' Wins Grand Champion Steer, Nets $3,600 From Hoss's

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Before youth paraded their grand and reserve champion animals through the sale ring, Megan had a few words about her steer.

Lebanon's grand champion steer used to be a "major pain," and for its efforts, exhibitor Megan Fuls nicknamed him "Major."

Yet the market steer became a major winner for Megan, picking up grand champion market steer in competition last week at the Lebanon Area Fair.

"He was stupid acting," said Megan, commenting on her heavyweight champion Angus crossbred, weighing 1,304 pounds. "He was a major pain to manage."

Megan, 17, is the daughter of Kevin and Karen Fuls, Richland. The senior at Conrad Weiser High School purchased the steer at Sunrise Club Calves. Megan said she exhibited the 2001 champion at Lebanon Fair.

"The calf just stuck out from the rest when he was purchased," noted Kevin.

Major was purchased by Rob Billet, Hoss's Steak and Sea House district manager, for $3,600 at the sale late last week at the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds.

Megan plans to show at the Keystone International Livestock Expo (KILE) in October and the Farm Show in January.

Joe Tice exhibited "Johnson," a 1,312-pound reserve champion market steer. Joe, 21, is the son of Tom and Deb Tice, Lebanon, and a graduate of Northern Lebanon County High School.

The reserve heavyweight steer is a Maine Anjou/Shorthorn crossbred purchased from Randy Mullinix, Kiwanis, Ill. The reserve champion sold for $1,800 to Dutchway Farm Markets, represented by Steven Habecker.

Joe said the steer, as a calf, exhibited "tons of muscle and was sound." This was his first Lebanon Fair championship, and he plans to exhibit at KILE and Farm Show.

Joe's brother, Nate, was champion at the 2003 Farm Show, noted Joe.

Other steer winners: champion light heavyweight went to Craig Ziegler, Myerstown. Champion middleweight went to Amber Daub, Fredericksburg. Champion lightweight went to Jen Campbell, Annville. Emily Whitmoyer, Fredericksburg, exhibited reserve champion light heavyweight. Reserve middleweight went to David Ziegler, Myerstown, and

Exhibitors Show 8 Dairy Breeds At Reading Fair

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Doug Sattazahn is wrapping up his 4-H dairy show career this season in grand fashion, exhibiting two champion cows at the Reading Dairy Show this week.

Sattazahn, 18, led both his junior 2-year-old Holstein and his 4-year-old Red and White cow to overall grand championships at the new site of Reading Fair here Wednesday.

Two years ago, Sattazahn traveled to the Buckeye Classic Sale In Ohio to purchase the winning Holstein, Schugs Leader Melanie. She was a calf at the time.

"She has a good frame, dairyness, and a good, level udder," Sattazahn said of his champion.

Sattazahn is a member of the Western Berks 4-H Dairy Club, and a 2003 graduate of Conrad Weiser High School. He helps on the 55-milking cow dairy of his parents Dennis and Betsy Sattazahn, Zahncroft Farm near Womelsdorf. His twin brother, David, is an avid Brown Swiss showman.

Doug is enrolled at Penn State this fall, where he plans to major in dairy and animal science.

Elmoak Mayo Nickey-Red is the name of Sattazahn's champion Red and White cow.

Randall Zimmerman of Bernville exhibited the reserve champion Holstein, a 5-year-old cow named Ju-Vindale Highlife Cassie.

Zimmerman is also a member of the Western Berks 4-H Dairy Club.

Other grand champion exhibitors were Kevin Buch, Ayrshire; Natalie Buch, Brown Swiss; Amber Hallowell, Guernsey; Kyle Kulp, Lineback; Jaylene Lesher, Jersey; and Laura Lesher, Milking Shorthorn.

The show featured more than 40 Holstein exhibitors as well as a strong colored breed turnout, especially in the Brown Swiss and Milking Shorthorn breeds.

David Castrogiovanni judged all of the breeds and called the following results:

lems and benefits that may arise in the course of everyday agriculture, according to Bell.

Remember, this column is not a substitute for legal advice. It is merely a "primer" into how future legislation could impact you as a farmer, and insights into the legislative issues farmers have to face.

THE LEGAL SIDE OF AGRICULTURE

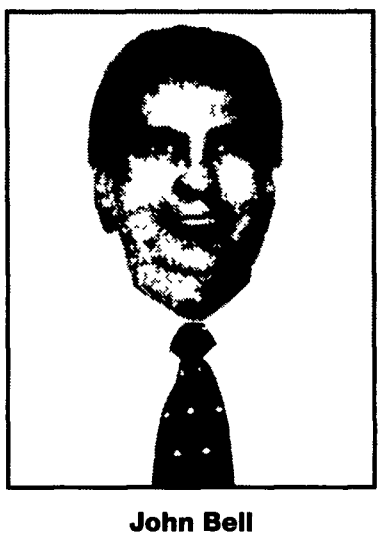
Editor Andy Andrews has given me a great opportunity to write a quarterly news column on legal matters related to agriculture.

I have had the honor for the past 20 years to work as legal counsel for Pennsylvania Farm Bureau. During this time, many farmers have contacted me to ask questions about laws pertaining to agriculture and solutions to particular legal problems they faced.

Some answers were easy. Many were not. Numerous problems farmers told to me were so complex that I could not predict what the outcome would finally be or whether the outcome would be costly to the farmer.

Unfortunately, many farmers facing serious legal problems do not begin to ask questions or get help until it is too late to resolve their problems easily. Many of these problems could have been avoided or significantly taken care of if the farmer asked questions or sought help sooner.

My hope in writing this column is to raise your awareness of how laws can and do impact your farming operations and what rights and obligations you may have in operating your farm business. Through my attempt to raise your awareness, I hope to make you think and ask questions about how laws may apply in your everyday operations and your normal business dealings and encourage you seek answers to your questions sooner, rather than later.



John Bell

When a parent sees that his or her child is not feeling quite right, the parent often thinks of taking the child to the doctor to better ensure the child will not develop a more serious problem. I hope my column will help you develop a better sense about the legal well-being of your particular farm activities and business dealings and to better sense when you need to seek professional legal to avoid serious problems. Believe me, the money you spend now to prevent these problems now will be far less than the money you will spend to deal with them later.

Many people may try to read this column as providing "legal advice." They may believe this column will provide all the information they need to know about the area of the law being written about, and they will decide not to seek legal counsel.

Please do not make that mistake. This column will never replace the advice and counsel you need to get from an attorney who is reviewing your particular situation.

My column will be more general in focus. It may not cover every legal feature that may apply to you. You and your farm operation may suffer serious consequences if these features are not considered and accounted for. You can only account for all these features if you get the proper assistance and guidance from an attorney who is familiar with your situation.

In future issues, I plan to write about Pennsylvania's Clean and Green Act and Ag Area Security Law, the legal protections that state laws provide to farms, features of Pennsylvania's Nutrient Management Act, and other laws of interest to agriculture. I would welcome other suggestions you may have of topics that I should discuss.

I am looking forward to writing this column, and hope it will help you to get the law to work better for you.

Corn Silage Programs On Franklin County Farm

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — On Thursday, Aug. 14 from 9:30 a.m. until noon in Franklin County an on farm program will be conducted to discuss the latest issues of corn silage production, harvest, and utilization. In addition to production management discussion will include recommendations and diagnostic procedures to evaluate bunker silo management practices.

Dr. Robert Van Saun, PSU Veterinary Sciences Department will lead the group in an exercise in a bunker silo to evaluate bunker silage for optimum feed utilization. Discussion will include: silage density determination, particle size, moisture, and pH. In addition Dr. Van Saun will highlight herd health issues related to bunker silo feeds, including haylage and corn silage.

Dr. Greg Roth, PSU Department of Crop and Soil Sciences will present updated information related to the selection of corn hybrids for silage use. Dr. Roth has been working with the Professional Dairy Managers of Pennsylvania and the seed industry to conduct on-farm silage trials. Trials have been established in Franklin, Lancaster, Centre, and Perry County.

Additional discussion will be conducted on correct moisture determination and recommendations for silage production, proper packing techniques, processing silage, the role of inoculants, environmental impacts of bunker silos, and bunker silo management.

This program will take place at Burk-Lea Farm, Grand Point Road, Chambersburg. Burk-Lea Farm is accessible from the Scotland Exit, number 20, off I 81. Travel north on Rt. 997 toward Scotland. Turn left at the M & T Bank, onto Main St. After several blocks, turn left onto Scotland Rd. Travel approximately 0.8 miles and you will come to a stop sign. Go straight across onto Grand Point Rd. Burk-Lea Farm is 0.4 miles ahead on the right.

There is no cost to attend but pre-registration is requested to assist in coordinating this event. Call the Franklin County Extension office, (717) 263-9226 or the Dauphin County Extension office at (717) 921-8803.

Maryland State Fair

goers through the Maryland State Fair barns, and introduce them to exhibitors who will answer specific questions regarding their animals or exhibits. The tours will depart every half hour from the Birthing Center in The Cow Palace beginning at 10 a.m. with the last tour scheduled for 9 p.m.

The Fair is scheduled Aug. 22-Sept. 1 at the fairgrounds in Timonium.

"While many people understand the vital role of Maryland's food and fiber industries to its economy, we would also like to make them aware of the increasing impact of our 'fun' or recreational agriculture such as turf grass and horses," said director of the University of Maryland Institute of Applied Agriculture and Agricultural Fair Tours director Dr. Tom Hartsock. "We hope each fairgoer walks away with new information and a renewed appreciation for the diversity of Maryland agriculture and its direct benefits to them."

The Agricultural Fair Tours begin at the Birthing Center where many fairgoers will have the opportunity to witness the miracle of birth of calves and litters of piglets. Veterinarians will be with the animals at all times to oversee and assist with the deliveries. The veterinarians and students will narrate the birth events that occur during Fair hours or explain the birthing process with video presentations. The tours will then proceed through The Cow Palace, The Milking Parlor, The Swine Barn, The Sheep and Goat Barn, The Horse Show Ring, and The Rabbits and Poultry Building.

The 122nd Maryland State Fair, which offers a variety of livestock and horse shows, midway rides, thoroughbred horse racing, arts and crafts, and home arts exhibits, runs from Friday, Aug. 22 through Monday, Sept. 1 at the Timonium Fairgrounds in Baltimore County. Early risers are welcome to attend livestock and horse shows at 9 a.m. Exhibit halls are open from 10 a.m.-10 p.m. The midway opens at 10 a.m. on weekends and noon on weekdays.

Admission is $5 for adults and children under 12 are admitted free. Rides are individually priced.

Alpine dairy goat intermediate kid class parades in the show ring at last year's Maryland State Fair.

At last year's Maryland State Fair, Joe Roberts, Dallas, Texas, right, won the hog calling contest, congratulated by contest coordinator Buddy Bowling.

4-H/FFA Livestock Sale

For more than 50 years, community business owners and individuals have shown their support to 4-H/FFA youth through participation as buyers at the 4-H/FFA Livestock Sale, among them Ad Layout and Design, Graul's Market, Hatfield, Papa John's Market, Pepsi-Cola, Padonia Station, Spring Meadow Farms, and The STOP Corporation. This year's auction will begin Sunday, Aug. 24, at 7 p.m. in the Maryland State Fair's Swine Show Arena in the Sheep and Swine Building.

4-H/FFA youth will auction off their prize steer, lamb, goats, and market hogs. Each youth will receive the proceeds raised from the sale of their livestock to invest their education or a new livestock project.

The Livestock Sale is the culmination of a year's worth of hard work and competition by 4-H/FFA youth. "This is an excellent opportunity for the youth. They have invested a lot of time and money in their livestock in order to prepare them for competition and auction," said State Fair 4-H Program Coordinator Lynn Norris. "It teaches them responsibility for their animals, how to make wise management decisions, and provides the financial support and encouragement necessary to meet future goals."

In order to qualify for the auction, the livestock must compete in various shows conducted Friday, Aug. 23 through Sunday, Aug. 25. The livestock judges will name the grand champions and reserve champions and a selection committee of knowledgeable individuals will choose the allotted number of livestock to be sold based on quality.

The livestock sale will begin at 7 p.m. with the sale of market goats, market steers followed by market hogs, and market lambs. Livestock is bid on by the pound. Last year's 1,182-pound grand champion dairy steer, purchased by Pearce Norris, sold for $1.10 per pound ($1300.20); the 1,200-pound grand champion market steer, purchased by Jim Grimes, John Bare, Maurice Gladhill, Edward Mercer, and J.R. Remsburg, sold for $3 per pound ($3,600); the 122-pound grand champion market lamb, purchased by Marlow and Wyatt, sold for $7.75 per pound ($945.50); the 83-pound grand champion market goat, purchased by state 4-H program leader Richard Byrne, sold for $7.50 per pound ($622.50); and the 261-pound grand champion market hog, purchased by Deggeller Attractions, sold for $5.75 per pound ($1,575).

VISA and MasterCard will be accepted. Arrangements will be made for free delivery of the livestock to a selected local meat packer who will package the meat to the buyer's specification at the buyer's expense, or many buyers choose to donate their animals back to the Maryland 4-H Foundation or other specified charities following which the animal will be resold at market price.

Cow Milking Lessons

Junior members of the Maryland Guernsey Youth Association will teach fairgoers how to milk cows by hand during their Guernsey Milk Clinic fundraiser, Friday, Aug. 22 through Sunday, Aug. 24 and Saturday, Aug. 30 through Monday, Sept. 1 from 11 a.m.-3 p.m., in the Maryland State Fair's Cow Palace.

The Guernsey Milk Clinic will provide educational information about Maryland's dairy industry and this special breed of dairy cows. And, for a small fee, interested fairgoers can take a lesson and try their hand at milking a cow. All participants will learn a new skill and will receive a special treat.

"Through this event, we hope to bring urban people closer to agriculture and introduce them to our favorite breed of cow — the Guernsey," said MD Cooperative Guernsey Breeders Association Board Member and Milk Clinic Director Jo-Ann Chason. "There are very few people who have ever hand-milked a cow. This activity will educate fairgoers about where their milk comes from, as well as the importance of milk in their diet."

All proceeds from the Milk Clinic will be used to enhance the association's youth programs, scholarships and the Quiz Bowl — a question and answer game about the dairy industry. "The Quiz Bowl program benefits youth by teaching more about science, math, social studies, and history (as they pertain to the dairy industry), time management, and communications skills," said Chason.

Premier Wart Relief

- Environmentally Friendly
- No Copper

Wrap Formula Protocol

The wrap formula is designed to be topically applied directly on the wart with the use of a wrap product for clinical animals. Apply one scoop of Premier Wart Relief™ wrap formula to the wrap. Wrap the hoof taking care to cover the wart in its entirety. Leave wrapped for 7-14 days.

Footbath Formula Protocol

The footbath formula is designed to be used in the dairy's footbath initially to eliminate the existing warts and as a maintenance product to reduce the likelihood of reoccurrence. Mix 24 lbs. of Premier Wart Relief™ footbath powder per 50 gallons of water (12 lbs. per 25 gallon footbath). Change as necessary to maintain a clean and effective footbath.

Genetics, Care Make A Champion Cow

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Lisa Sonnen, veteran Holstein Show champion at Lebanon, came back to win it again late last week at the Lebanon Area Fair.

She did it with a 9-year-old, "Classic," a 100,000-pound winner.

Adam and Lisa Sonnen purchased the cow from what Lisa calls Adam's "mentor," Wesley Engst, out of Frogmore Farm, Aurora, N.Y. as a 10-month-old.

The Sonnens won grand champion at the Northern Tier Championship Show with the cow as a 4-year-old, Lisa noted. They also did well at the Wyoming County district show.

Scott Nolt, who won champion at Lebanon three years ago, showed his reserve champion, a senior 3-year-old named "Ester." He says a lot of genetics go into a champion cow.

Lisa Sonnen exhibited an aged cow, at 9 years old, winning the 100,000-pound class, to grand champion Holstein late last week at the Lebanon Fair.

Lancaster County Weekly Cattle

New Holland, Pa.
Report Supplied By USDA
Friday, Aug. 8, 2003

	CATTLE	CALVES
THIS WEEK	2449	2130
I AST WEEK	2329	2061
LAST YEAR	1718	1596

Compared to last week's closing prices, slaughter steers sold mostly steady to firm to open up the week Late week prices were mixed, with high Choice and Prime steers trading steady to 1 00 higher, while Choice steers sold mostly steady Bidding was very active early in the week on the lower quality Select and low Choice steers, with buyers not nearly as interested in paying in the low 80's for the low Choice cattle late in the week as bids were a 1 00 lower on the Thursday supply Producers continue to make their steers pretty fancy despite running short on feed However, moisture has been more than ample over the past few months and is making for an excellent corn crop in most areas of Lancaster County, but once again the feeding industry has proven just how sporadic it can be with feeder cattle throughout most of the U S trading very high So even if you're able to receive 79 00-82 00 for your Choice steers you still have to be a pretty efficient feeder to make the cost of a 114 00 450 pounder pencil out. It is not uncommon for prices to stay over 100 00 for lightweight feeder cattle, but the fact that cattle feeders are paying 90 00 or better for 700-800 pounders goes to show there is still plenty of long and short term confidence in the feeding sector The current feeder cattle prices may be justified as Chicago Mercantile Exchange futures prices have live cattle contracts from current into early next summer in the 76 00 to nearly 77 00 range, with a 6 usually the first number in futures prices this time of year The western direct feeders in the Southern Plains moved their steers 1 00 lower at 79 00 on Thursday, with the Northern Corn Belt feeders able to hold onto steady, or 80 00-81 50 on a live basis. Boxed beef cutout values remain supportive of the current market as both Choice and Select cuts were from 2 00 to nearly 4 00 higher for the week through Thursday Local Holsteins sold steady to weak, with the heifer runs to light to test Slaughter cows sold weak to 2 00 lower through mid-week, with the late week run once again making up for the early week losses as prices were steady to 1 00 higher Most of the increase noted in the late week run is due to good buyer attendance and late week demand, but also a much nicer quality of cows Slaughter bulls sold steady to weak through Wednesday, with the Thursday run trending 2 00-3 00 higher The reported supply this week in Lancaster County included 900 head of slaughter steers, 175 head of slaughter heifers, 1035 head of slaughter cows, 139 head of slaughter bulls, and 200 head of feeder cattle the health of the innumerable bacteria that live in the soil.

Those bacteria "are the most important part of your (farming) process," Ferrie said. Without these microscopic organisms, no plant or animal matter would ever be broken down in the soil.

"That's what turns this earth green."

Ferrie compared the biomass of bacteria in soil to that of a large herd of cattle.

"We got to feed these guys," he said.

Since most of the bacteria reside in the top six inches of soil, plowing manure in at depths greater that six inches will not allow the bacteria to feed and break it down, Ferrie said.

Maryland State Fair

Youth Safety Program

The KRIS (Kids Recovery Identification Systems) Project, created to assist parents, law enforcement officials, and the community in locating missing children will showcase its child safety programs, Friday, Aug. 22 through Monday, Sept. 1, 10 a.m.-10 p.m., in the Exhibition Hall at the Maryland State Fair.

KRIS has incorporated state of the art technology and proven methods of emergency safety procedures into its programs. Its Video Identification Program, a one-minute video CD-Rom of the child for parents to keepon hand, has been a leading technology in the child recovery field. Other services such as Child Fingerprinting, Digital Photo Identification Cards, and the Photographic ID Database (that allows flyers to be created and distributed to law enforcement agencies, the media and community volunteers) have become indispensable tools for police and forensic detectives in emergency situations.

According to a study released by the National Incident Studies of Missing, Abducted, Runaway, and Throwaway Chidren, nearly 800,000 children were reported missing in 2002. "We all must do everything possible to assist in the recovery of a missing child, they are counting on us," said KRIS president Sha Stafford Brown.

Fairgoers will receive free child safety materials and information on how parents can promptly relay pertinent information on missing children to the proper authorities. Fairgoers will also have the opportunity to ask questions and for nominal fees register their children for specific programs.

The KRIS Project, founded by Maryland State Police Officer Sha S. Brown, incorporates expert information that his mother, former Maryland State Police Officer Karen Fortune, utilized in her years facilitating child fingerprinting programs, "Project Kid Care" for The Johns Hopkins Hospital, and other child protection programs.

Maryland Agriculture Ambassador

Twenty-three women between the ages of 16 and 19, who have earned their place in the 2003 Maryland Agriculture Ambassador Contest (formerly known as the Maryland Farm Bureau Queen Contest) by winning their county Farm Bureau-sponsored contests will compete for the Maryland Agriculture Ambassador title, scholarship and cash awards valued up to $6,500.

The reigning Maryland Farm Bureau Queen, Miss Hannah Amoss of Harford County, will have the honor of passing the new title on to her successor, the 2003 Maryland Agriculture Ambassador at the Maryland Agriculture Ambassador Contest, Friday, Aug. 22, at 7 p.m., in the Horse Sales Pavilion.

"I feel honored to have been a part of the proud tradition of representing agriculture throughout the state," said 2002 Maryland State Farm Bureau Queen Hannah Amoss. "As we step forward to the future with our new Agriculture Ambassador program, I am encouraged that the legacy of promoting our State's number one industry will continue to expand. This program will increase the potential for other young people to gain first-hand knowledge and experience about the many opportunities made possible through agriculture. I particularly appreciated the time I spent learning from educating Maryland's diverse farming community, legislators and the general public."

The 23 Maryland County Farm Bureau Ambassadors vying for the 2003 Maryland Farm Bureau Ambassador title will be critiqued during a two-day competition, primarily on their farm/agricultural experience, speaking ability, Farm Bureau knowledge, personality, friendliness and personal presentation.

The 2003 Maryland Farm Bureau Ambassador will be present throughout the run of the State Fair to award prizes, and mingle with fairgoers, dignitaries, and media representatives. Her responsibilities will continue throughout the year, as she will participate in a number of activities representing Maryland agriculture and the Maryland Farm Bureau. The runners-up will assist the Maryland Farm Bureau Ambassador with award presentations and serve as hostesses for dignitaries.

Stuntmen Return To Tumble, Flip, and Fly

Five extreme stuntmen, including some who have performed in "Austin Powers," "Batman Forever," "Hook" and other movies, will perform a variety of high-flying and thrilling stunts during the Extreme Air Ultimate Stunt Show, Friday, Aug. 22 through Monday, Sept. 1 at the Maryland State Fair. Performances will be conducted several times each day during the Fair.

The Xtreme Air stunt team will attempt world record triple and quad somersaults from more than 40 feet in the air, will be catapulted over 50 feet from a high performance Russian Swing, and will fall from an 85-foot high platform. And, this year, Xtreme Air will add their Rail Soaping and Grinding Show, a stunt show invented by them.

"It takes the best stuntmen in the world to perform from our high tech stunt equipment," said Xtreme Air founder, lead flyer, trainer, and producer Shawn Goodner. "The audience will witness the same type of stunts that they see in the movies. In fact, they will see more stunts in this 30-minute show than in a two-hour action movie."

The 122nd Maryland State Fair, which offers a variety of livestock and horse shows, midway rides, thoroughbred horse racing, arts and crafts, and home arts exhibits, runs from Friday, Aug. 22 through Monday, Sept. 1.

The Toyota Concert Series will present three concerts by national artists. The concerts are free with admission to the Fair.

Thoroughbred Horse Racing begins Saturday, Aug. 23 and runs throughout the fair with live and/or simulcast races from a variety of other tracks around the country. Admission to the racetrack is included in the admission price of the fair. Parking on the fairgrounds for a minimal fee and free parking at the Park and Ride location on Deereco Road are available on a first-come, first-served basis.

The fairgrounds encourages use of the Light Rail with an easily accessible Light Rail stop at the Fairgrounds' Cow Palace Gate. For fairgoers' convenience, ATM Machines will be located in front of the 4-H Building and the Exhibition Hall.

For general information, call (410) 252-0200, ext. 227 or visit the Maryland State Fair Website at marylandstatefair.com.

The famous Cow Palace is a familiar site for 4-H'ers and fairgoer families each year at the Maryland State Fair.

Celebration Of Agriculture At Maryland State Fair, Aug. 28

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Bring family and friends to Agriculture Day at the State Fair on Thursday, Aug. 28. Celebrate the importance of agriculture and learn how the Maryland Department of Agriculture has touched every day lives of Marylanders for 30 years.

The Agriculture Day celebration will begin with a private luncheon at the Administration Building. During the private luncheon, the secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley will give an historical perspective of the Maryland Department of Agriculture and honor those employees with 30 years or more of service.

Following the luncheon, Secretary Riley and Deputy Secretary John R. Brooks will tour the fairgrounds and greet fair participants and visitors, ultimately joining the celebration at the Farm and Garden Building.

Entertainment will begin at 2:30 p.m. featuring Maynard Huddleston and his strolling band, a watermelon seed-spitting contest at 3 p.m. sponsored by the Mar-Del Watermelon Association, and various agriculture-related demonstrations and hands-on activities for all ages.

For the entire duration of the State Fair, the north end of the Farm and Garden Building is transformed into a Town Center where visitors can learn how agriculture touches their lives every day in many ways.

Many people don't know that the Department of Agriculture does much more than farming activities. The agency also ensures the accuracy of gas pumps and deli scales, grades eggs, meat and fruit, controls mosquitoes, certifies and licenses pesticide applicators, licenses horse stables, preserves farmland, markets food and agriculture products overseas, and much more.

Dandie says... A Winning Combo for Aggressive Dairy Managers

Attention & Tivoli

An Early Maturity Alfalfa plus a Late Heading Perennial Ryegrass

Attention Alfalfa

A high yielding, persistent variety that carries StandFast™ Alfalfa technology traits for improved standability and fast recovery after harvest. Ready to cut 3 to 5 days earlier than other Fall Dormancy 4 & 5 varieties. Ideal for mixing with our late heading grasses. Under aggressive management, Attention will likely give an extra cutting for the year, and still exhibit superior persistence. The quality is also excellent.

Tivoli Perennial Ryegrass

A late heading tetraploid ryegrass excellent for mixing with new seedings of alfalfa. For best results, plant in deep fertile soils. We recommend 18 lbs alfalfa with 7 lbs Tivoli. Looks great in our 3 year old and new plots Top yielder in 2002 Cornell trial with 5.67 tons dm p/ac. A 12" sample taken 7/10/03 had a nel of 0.94 (in situ with high producing cows 24 hr. incubation), a protein of 20.9, and a sugar level of 11.5 This makes milk!

It Takes A Touch To Examine Beehives

Troutman in action wears a bee veil but prefers to work with bare arms and hands. She said, "I have this theory: If you dress for war with gloves and long sleeves, the bees are more aggressive. Not wearing gloves forces me to be more careful with the bees. If I do something wrong, they let me know in a hurry."

Working in tandem are Pennsylvania Honey Bee Inspector Renee Troutman and beekeeper Dennis Ernest, Stevens.

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

STEVENS (Lancaster Co.) — Renee Troutman calmly removes a honeycomb from a bee hive. Bees swarm around her, but Renee doesn't appear to notice.

"I'm not afraid of being stung, although I probably will be a few times before I finish morning inspections," she said. "I have this theory: If you dress for war with gloves and long sleeves, the bees are more aggressive. Not wearing gloves forces me to be more careful with the bees. If I do something wrong, they let me know in a hurry."

So Troutman tackles her job as state-appointed apiary inspector with bare hands and arms but with a bee veil. It's her job to inspect every hive in the three-county area of Lebanon, Lancaster, and Dauphin counties at least once every two years.

Readers will probably remember Troutman as the former Pennsylvania Honey Queen, Renee Blatt, who went to national competition where she was selected American Honey Queen. As the representative for the U.S., she crisscrossed the states promoting the industry and encouraging beekeepers. After that, Renee filled an internship with the Department of Agriculture. Last fall she married Justin Troutman. Together they operate a dairy farm.

Renee helps her husband milk their 50 cows in the morning, then travels about 15 minutes to her parents' farm to help milk their 70 cows before she heads out to inspect bee hives.

All hives and apiaries must be registered with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. The inspection service is a benefit to the beekeeper. It helps pinpoint problems, detect viruses in the beehive, and solve the problems.

"The most dreaded bee disease is American Foulbrood. The bacteria is highly contagious and will kill a colony and quickly spread to other hives in the area," Troutman said.

The bacteria is usually spread by bees robbing honey out of other colonies, especially if the infected hive becomes weak and cannot fend for itself.

The bacteria can also be spread by moving infected equipment from hive to hive or by purchasing used equipment that is infected with the bacteria.

The only cure for American Foulbrood Bacteria (AFB) is to burn all infected equipment. A preventative method is to treat hives with Terramycin, but some AFB strains are resistant to the treatment.

Troutman said, "Many beekeepers are unfamiliar with the symptoms of disease."

Troutman's trained eye quickly recognizes the larva that has died and exhibits a "ropy" condition. The healthy larva that was pearly white has sunk to the bottom of the cell and turned into a black, thick substance that can be stretched with a toothpick.

Troutman has found 15 cases of AFB since she began inspecting hives in May.

The diagnosis isn't made merely on Troutman's visual assessment. She inserts a toothpick into the suspicious-looking substance and has it tested in Harrisburg.

Troutman uses a smoker to calm the bees while she inspects the honey and the hives. Even so, several bees disturbed by her intrusion circle around her.

As she works, Troutman and the beekeeper whose hives she is inspecting discuss the appearance of the hive.

"There's your queen bee. She's beautiful," Troutman points to the large, honey-colored bee surrounded by hundreds of working bees.

Hives are "requeened" every two to three years. The queen bees are generally mailordered for $17 each.

Troutman also examines the hive for honey distribution. A healthy hive has lots of bees, a solid brood pattern, and healthy, capped brood.

"When I'm inspecting, I look for punctured capping, indicating that the larva has died from a disease and the bees have attempted to open the cell to remove and clean up the dead larva," Troutman said.

Chalkbrood, a diseased larva that becomes mummified, is another common brood disease.

Tracheal mites, which can live and reproduce in the bee's breathing tubes, are microscopic and a big problem for beekeepers to eliminate. A sign to detect tracheal mites is when wings on one side of the thorax become detached.

Another virus beekeepers need to be concerned about is Sacbrood. The virus prevents bees from completing their larval phase and pupating, and the larva dies and quickly turns dark brown.

"Sacbrood is easily identified because the whole larva can be scooped out of the cell complete with its larval sac," Troutman said.

There is no cure or medicine for Sacbrood. Requeening and a good honey flow will sometimes clean up an infection.

Troutman has learned to identify many known viruses and fungi diseases.

Whitetail Wetlands Offers A Different Kind Of Getaway

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

NEW PARIS (Bedford Co.) — A farm with a never drying wet lands quickly brought farmer Jerry Fetter to the realization some land is not meant to be farmed.

Rather then fight nature, Jerry decided to take a lesson from his neighbor, Dr. Tom Dick, a veterinarian surgeon from Johnstown, and give a part of his land back to the wildlife by turning it into wetlands.

Jerry credits the thus far success of "Whitetail Wetlands" to manager, Connie Hunt.

Connie loves and has studied plants, flowers, birds, butterflies, and all the other wonderful acts of nature brought about by the wetlands.

"It is so sad to think that wetlands are disappearing at a rate of 275 acres per day," says this talented bundle of energy.

She is amazed at how quickly nature came in tune with the wetlands efforts and has identified numerous species of birds and dragon flies, plús ducks, turtles, frogs, geese, snakes, fish, and mammals attracted by the return of nature to its own.

Connie oversaw the construction of a lodge, an addition to the original farmhouse which allows outsiders to see, photograph, hike, horseback ride, cross-country ski, and genuinely enjoy all aspects of the wetlands.

"It is a setting that offers no stressful schedules, no crowds, opportunity to commune with nature on a closely personal basis, to observe wild critters in their natural habitat," said Connie.

The lodge itself is uniquely and beautifully constructed. A large dining table provides a setting for dinners for about a dozen people, which Connie herself can whip up in the octagon-shaped kitchen.

Sliding doors enlarge the room for conversations and meetings.

On Being a Farm Wife

Joyce Bupp

One of "those" days, is it?

Maybe the light bulb blew when you switched it on after the alarm rang this morning? A ringing phone woke you from a sound sleep in the middle of the night, only to be a wrong number? The back left tire on your car looked low ... or had gone flat overnight?

While stumbling across the kitchen floor in your bare feet, you bruised your big toe stepping on one of those plastic bricks left by the kids (or grandkids). Or slipped on a stray, lost grape. The only thing the mailman brought other than a stack of junk mail was a sizeable, unexpected bill. You discovered that the stray cat you befriended has gifted you with a litter of six kittens in your garage. And, when you grabbed your favorite t-shirt, it had a stain on the front?

We all have days like that. Here on the farm, one of "those" days might entail stray heifers ripping bags of feed apart or calves stuck backwards in birth canals or a blown tractor motor or having some nasty piece of metal go through the knives of the forage chopper and tear their honed cutting edges to shreds.

And, then it happens.

You drop what you're doing in the middle of a job to answer the ringing phone, and no one is there. And it's irritating as the dickens.

An e-mail message forwarded by a friend last week suggests that the nobody-on-the-other-end calls are often part of the telemarketing industry's research, designed to surface the most likely time of day that a real person is likely to answer a particular number. And, the e-mail has a suggestion on how to confound the system and get your number dumped out of it.

What this message suggests is that, when no one is on the other end of a call received, we punch the pound sign button quickly for several, maybe six or eight times. This action supposedly confuses the dialing computer, which in turn loses that phone number.

Gee, I don't know if it works or not. But, I'm going to give it a try.

You might want to, also. Especially if you're having one of "those" days and punching out something might be welcome. But please don't pound the "pound" button so hard you mess up your phone. This column doesn't want to be responsible for your phone not working.

Now, on to all those "pre-approved" letters for credit or credit card protection or insurance or whatever that arrive daily in our mailboxes. They generally have self-addressed, pre-stamped return envelopes. My friend's e-mail suggests that you thoughtfully return to the company not only their own junk mail, but maybe others you got that day.

I have actually done this at times — on "those" days — over the years. But you probably want to carefully remove anything with your name or any kind of account number on it first.

If we all did this across the country, think how it would stimulate returns to the U.S. Postal Service. Why, the extra volume could possibly even help to delay the next postage price increase. Consider yourself a consumer-oriented patriot.

And, y'know all those glossy little advertisements you get with utility bills and credit card statements? My friend's e-mail further advises to ship those back with our regular payments (just don't overweight your envelope that it ends up costing you more money). The senders can have the thrill of re-opening and disposing of what they originally shipped out.

What fun!

So do your part to keep the outfits that insist on littering our lives, and our office desks, with all their unwanted stuff busy dealing with its return and fallout. Help turn one of "those" days for you back into one of "those" days for the mass marketers who pay a lot less to send their stuff per piece than do you and I.

Just think how many trees you might help to save.

And landfill space.

McCormick To Spice Up Maryland Fair

TIMONIUM, Md. — Maryland's own McCormick and Company, Inc. will spice up the flavor of fresh foods harvested from Maryland farms and the Chesapeake Bay and served during the Maryland State Fair, Friday, Aug. 22 through Monday, Sept. 1.

The McCormick Maryland Foods Pavilion will work with Maryland commodity groups to showcase a variety of food that grows in the State including crab cakes, catfish filet sandwiches, corn-on-the-cob, smoked ham, pork barbecue, charcoal grilled beef sandwiches, lamb shish-kebabs, fried clams, turkey subs, roasted barbecue chicken, fresh fruit salad, yogurt sundaes, and more.

Keep an eye out for McCormick and commodity group representatives who will showcase products, give away recipes, and assist with cooking demonstrations in the Pavilion's center demonstration area daily.

Judge A Cake By Its Cover? Of Course!

Appearance Counts During Reading Fair Baking Contest

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Sometimes appearances aren't deceiving.

In the eyes of some judges, looks can count a great deal, especially in the world of baking.

"Appearance counts," said Marge Nester, retired home economics teacher from Muhlenberg High School.

Nester, who helped judge the baking contests Monday at the Reading Fair, said, "People eat with their eyes, not with their mouths."

Nester had some advice for would-be champion bakers: "If it doesn't look good, you might as well forget it."

Looking good, Nester noted, includes quick breads that don't sag in the middle or are cracked. It also includes cakes that are proportional and well presented to the eye. Bakers must follow directions — for a contest — to a T.

When it comes to contests, Reading proved no exception — several entries were disqualified because some cooks didn't follow the contest directives.

Nester taught at Muhlenberg for 18 years and judged many times at the Kutztown, Oley, and Reading fairs. She found recipes at the Hershey cake and cookie contest that didn't follow the directives carefully outlined: use Hershey chips and cocoa, because the contest sponsor spells them out.

Though heat and humidity took its toll on some entries, judges were looking at several factors, including appearance, flavor, and texture for the cake and cookies. For the quick breads and pies, overall appearance, crust color, flavor, texture, and shrinkage, in addition to bottom crust "doneness" and filling consistency and flavor, rated high. Creativity was critical as well.

In all, there were 18 quick breads, 17 chocolate cakes, 13 cookie entries, and 15 pie entries. The Hershey Cocoa Classic cake contest specified the use of Hershey's cocoa. The baking chips cookie, brownie, or bar contest specified the use of Hershey's baking chips (any variety) and, if frosting is used, Hershey's cocoa must be used and listed in the recipe.

The cookie contest winner was Nicole Gruber, Slatedale, for a recipe for "Cherry Raspberry Chocolate Brownies" (all judges voted this tops in appearance for the cookie entries). The chocolate cake winner was "Amanda's Chocolate Cake," also tops in appearance by all judges, exhibited by Amanda Kurtz, Emmaus. Amanda's sister, Sara, exhibited the quickbread winner, "Sweet Potato Bread." The top apple pie, "Yummy Apple Meringue Pie With Spiced Pecans," exhibited by Catherine Ache, was also rated number one in appearance by all judges.

All number ones tasted good, too.

Amanda Kurtz, 12, is the daughter of Robert and Sharon Kurtz, Emmaus. Robert noted his daughter has shown at various fairs, picking up ribbons at the Pennsylvania Fair recently. Amanda is in the seventh grade at St. Anne's in Emmaus.

Amanda's sister, Sara, 8, is enrolled in third grade at St. Anne's.

Robert noted that part of the recipe for the chocolate cake included peanut butter, and that Amanda doesn't even like peanut butter.

"She can't stand it," said Amanda's mother, Sharon.

Sharon, a winner at various contests, suggested to Amanda to place crushed Reese's peanut butter cups on top of the cake to add flavor. Amanda used butter-flavored Crisco in the icing, which helped it maintain texture, even in the heat.

Amanda won the apple pie contest at the Pennsylvania Fair this year, noted her mom. "Amanda took her good old time," said Sharon, about six hours preparing the pie for competition — close to the time spent on the chocolate cake.

This was the first time Amanda submitted an entry for the Reading Fair contest and her first champion at Reading.

Sharon patiently supervised Sara's quick bread recipe entry. This was a "first" for the Kurtz family, submitting a quick bread entry at a fair.

Sharon won the winning chocolate cake at Allentown (a different recipe) and won the first place apple pie, she noted, at Farm Show this year.

Because of new contest rules, the recipes cannot be released to the general press because of competition at the Farm Show.

Contest judges also included Bruce Postem, assistant lifestyle editor for the Reading Eagle newspaper, and Andy Andrews, editor of Lancaster Farming.

Conquering College Costs

While a college education does not assure you of a job, statistics indicate that during a lifetime, college graduates earn in excess of a million dollars more than high school graduates.

Financing a college education is a major undertaking, something many families tend to put off until the spring of the student's high school junior year.

Families assume their smart scholar will be able to get by with grants and scholarships; relying little on family finances. Once the acceptance letter and the financial aid package arrive, you might be in for a rude awakening. Where are you going to get the money? Especially when the maximum a student can borrow their first year is $2,600!

If you are reading this and have grade-school and pre-school children or grandchildren, take note. The younger the child, the more options you have to save and invest for their future college education. Even if your child is in junior high, you still have options, just fewer of them.

Start by developing a savings plan. Set realistic goals. Rather than trying to save the entire $80,000 it may take for junior to complete college, plan to use a patchwork of funding sources, including family savings.

College savings should be placed in a tax-advantaged account for two reasons. 1. Faster growth without the tax bite. 2. Penalties imposed if used for other-than-college needs.

There is no one best college savings investment vehicle. Each has advantages and disadvantages.

Avoid using regular savings accounts, which pay little interest and are subject to income taxes.

Avoid saving in the child's name. Accounts titled to the children may legally become their property at age 18 and college might be the last thing they want to do with their new found "wealth." Money titled in the child's name counts more heavily against the child in financial aid calculations as well.

Series EE U.S. Savings Bonds are one of the safest, easiest to understand, college savings tools. Again, title the bond in your name and if you wish, designate the child as beneficiary, but not as co-owner. Bonds which are used for education will be tax-free. To learn more check out www.savingsbonds.gov.

Education IRA's allow you to save and invest up to $2,000 per child (under age 18) per year with tax-free distribution if used for IRS defined qualified educational expenses. Your family must also be at or below a certain Adjusted Gross Income level to qualify.

529 Plans allow you to save much more for college. Each state has at least one sponsored plan, but you aren't limited to using the plan your state sponsors. For more information www.savingforcollege.com or www.collegesavings.org.

Pennsylvania's 529, TAP (Tuition Assistance Program) actually has two separate components.

The Investment Plan allows you to invest in one or more investment options based on your child's age, your risk tolerance, or socially responsible criteria. While your investment is not guaranteed, it has the ability to outpace rising college costs. This option is better suited for younger children who have a longer time horizon in which to save.

The Guaranteed Savings Plan guarantees that your account value will grow with college tuition costs. In essence, you buy tomorrow's college credits at today's prices.

Last fall when Penn State tuition increased 13 percent, savers in the guaranteed plan who used the funds for tuition essentially got a 13 precent return on their money! For additional details check the website www. patap.org

Don't plan to save the full cost of college. Think of college funding as a mosaic comprised of savings, grants, loans, university-specific financial aid packages, and even work-study.

Tax benefits are possible when paying for college. The HOPE Scholarship Credit for the first two years of college, Lifetime Learning Credit, and even a deduction on student loan interest all help make college costs more affordable.

IRS "Publication 970: Tax Benefits for Higher Education" provides you with detailed information on the tax implications of various college funding tools. It is available from www.irs.gov.

To learn more, request the publication Conquering College Costs (CAT-UI372), a part of the Financial Security in Life: Now and Later series from your county Cooperative Extension Office or download it from http://pubs.cas.psu.edu/freepubs/ui372.html.

By spending some time reading and learning about your various options, college costs can be conquered.

If It's Edible — Sandwich It

SUMMER SALAD SANDWICH

2 slices potato bread
Mayonnaise
Cucumber, thinly sliced lengthwise
Lettuce leaves
Tomato thinly sliced
Vidalia onions thinly sliced

Slather the bread with mayonnaise. Layer the cucumber, tomato, lettuce, and onions on bread. Season with salt and pepper. Cover with second slice of bread again slathered with mayonnaise. Slice in half and enjoy!

Use your imagination and add other veggies to this sandwich.

This is a great sandwich to eat this time of the year because of all the fresh veggies available.

Mount Joy

NEW JERSEY TORPEDO SANDWICH

1 torpedo roll (In Pa., these are called hoagie or sub rolls)
4 slices Genoa salami
3 slices hot ham
3 slices boiled ham, fold in half lengthwise
3 slices provolone cheese
Shredded lettuce
Thin slices Vidalia onions
Red wine vinaigrette

Slice roll lengthwise without cutting through. Pour the vinaigrette on both sides of bread. Close and squeeze gently for the dressing to absorb into bread.

Open bread and layer with the salami, ham, hot ham, cheese, lettuce and onions. Squeeze it together. Sit and enjoy it!

TUNA-CHEESE MELTS

7-ounce can tuna, drained, flaked
12 slices bread (any variety)
2 or 3 hard-boiled eggs, chopped
Mayo or salad dressing to taste
Marie's Creamy Italian Garlic salad dressing to taste
1 tablespoon milk
12 slices cheese
Butter, softened for easier spreading

Combine tuna and eggs in bowl. Blend milk with enough salad dressing to moisten mixture in bowl. Add to tuna mixture; mix well. Spread one side of bread slices with Italian Dressing. Fill each sandwich with tuna mixture and two slices cheese. Spread outsides of sandwiches with butter. Grill until golden brown. Tomato slices may be added if desired. Serve with a glass of ice cold milk. Yield: 6 servings.

Is August a busy time in your household with farming, the fair and sporting activities like in my home? If so, then may I suggest to consider serving fast, easy, nutritious meals consisting of sandwiches like toasted cheese, meat and cheese or one of the many salad varieties. Sandwiches are easy and fast to serve, they can come in varieties that are high in protein but also low in fat.

PEANUT BUTTER AND JELLY TORTILLA WRAPS

Layer creamy peanut butter on a flour tortilla with strawberry or red raspberry fruit spread and roll up "wrap" or "jellyroll" style. Slice crosswise into pieces.

One of the best childhood memories and an easy sandwich to trade at the cafeteria table is the classic peanut butter and grape jelly sandwich.

The repetition of peanut butter and jelly sandwiches day after day might please school-age children, but parents need peanut butter and jelly variety.

For a simple change, vary the bread offerings from plain sliced bread to raisin bread, pita pockets, dinner rolls, flour tortillas, or mini-bagels.

Welch's

GRILLED PEANUT BUTTER AND JELLY SANDWICHES

8 slices bread
½ cup peanut butter
2 tablespoons plus 2 teaspoons Welch's grape jelly
2 tablespoons plus 2 teaspoons unsalted butter, softened

Spread four slices of bread with equal portions of the jelly. Spread remaining slices with peanut butter and place on top of jellied bread. Spread butter on the outside of each piece of bread. Heat a heavy nonstick skillet over medium heat and cook sandwiches 1 to 2 minutes per side, or until golden. Makes 4 sandwiches.

Welch's

TOMATO, CHEESE FILLED FOCACCIA

1 package active-dry yeast
¼ cup warm water
2 cups all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons olive oil, divided
1 cup shredded Provolone cheese
5 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese, divided
1½ teaspoons Italian seasoning, divided
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 large ripe tomatoes, sliced thin

Dissolve yeast in warm water; let stand five minutes. Combine flour and salt in work bowl of food processor fitted with metal blade. Stir in yeast mixture and 3 tablespoons olive oil. Process until ingredients form a ball. Process 1 minute longer. Turn out onto lightly floured surface. Knead until smooth and elastic, about 2 minutes.

Place dough in oiled bowl. Turn dough over to oil top. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk, about 30 minutes. Punch dough down. Let rest five minutes. Fit dough into oiled 10-inch cake pan, deep dish pizza pan or springform pan. Brush with 1 tablespoon olive oil. Cover and let rise 15 minutes. Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Bake 20-25 minutes or until golden. Cool completely in pan on wire rack.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Combine Provolone, ¼ cup Parmesan, 1 teaspoon Italian seasoning, and pepper. Cut baked focaccia horizontally in half. Place bottom on cookie sheet. Cover with sliced tomatoes. Sprinkle with cheese mixture. Cover with top of focaccia. Brush with remaining tablespoon olive oil; sprinkle with remaining 1 tablespoon Parmesan cheese and ½ teaspoon Italian seasoning. Bake 10 minutes or until cheese inside is melted. Cut into wedges and serving immediately.

CHICKEN IN A PITA

½ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing (light)
1 tablespoon soy sauce (light)
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
1 tablespoon peanut butter
1 cup cooked, chopped chicken
½ cup Chinese peapods, cut in half
½ cup chopped red or yellow sweet peppers
¼ cup roasted peanuts
3 whole pita breads, cut in half

Mix mayonnaise or dressing, soy sauce, ground ginger, and peanut butter until well blended. Add chicken and vegetables and refrigerate 1-4 hours. Stir in peanuts and spoon into pita pockets.

Pork Tenderloin Cubano is a meal in a sandwich.

Featured Recipe

Sandwich selections go far beyond sliced bread. Gone are the days of selecting rye, brown or white breads for sandwiches.

Wraps in all flavors and colors, specialty breads such as focaccia, pita, tortillas and much more are filling breakfast, lunch and dinner menus. Sandwiches are taking on a whole new look and definitely more flavor.

When it comes to filling sandwiches, creativity is unlimited. If it's edible, you can sandwich it.

Try this Pork Tenderloin Cubano, large enough to serve four.

PORK TENDERLOIN CUBANO

1 pound ¾-inch thick pork tenderloin, trimmed, sliced
1 tablespoon butter
8 thin slices smoked Gouda cheese
4 6-inch French sandwich rolls, split
½ small red onion, thinly sliced

Marinade:

1 small onion, finely chopped
¼ cup finely chopped cilantro
3 cloves garlic, minced
Juice of 1 orange
Juice of 1 lime
2 tablespoons honey
2 tablespoons black pepper
1 teaspoon ground cumin
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dried oregano

Mango salsa:

½ cup medium salsa
⅓ cup finely diced fresh mango (or pineapple if preferred)

Cut pork tenderloin into eight pieces. Pound pork pieces with meat mallet between two sheets of waxed paper or plastic wrap until approximately 1-inch thick.

For marinade, combine onion, cilantro, garlic, orange and lime juice, honey, pepper, cumin, salt, and oregano in large shallow dish. Add pork to marinade, turning to coat. Cover with plastic wrap and marinate in refrigerator 2-24 hours. For salsa, combine salsa and mango. Let stand at least one hour to allow flavors to blend.

Heat butter in large skillet over medium heat. Remove pork from marinade; discard marinade. Cook pork 6-8 minutes per side or until temperature reaches 155-160-degrees and pork is juicy and barely pink inside. Pork should be cooked in single layer in skillet; cook in two batches if necessary. Top pork with cheese during last minute of cooking to melt cheese. Place pork on rolls; top with onion slices. Serve open-faced with mango salsa, if desired.

Teens Named 'Scholar Athlete Milk Mustache Of The Year'

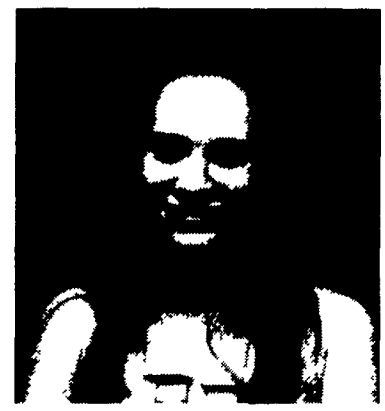
PHILADELPHIA — Two high school seniors from the Mid-Atlantic region received the Scholar Athlete Milk Mustache of the Year (SAMMY) award for their commitment to academic achievement, athletic prowess, and community involvement.

Natalia Obolensky of Princton, N.J. and Jessica C. Wolfe of Arlington, Va., were two of the 25 talented teens chosen from 52,000 applicants nationwide. Judging is based on academic performance, athletic excellence, leadership, and community service.

These college-bound superstars were honored by Summer Sanders, host of "NBA Inside Stuff," and Super Bowl Champion quarterback Brad Johnson of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, at a special ceremony at Disney's Wide World of Sports Complex™, where they were inducted into the Milk House's SAMMY Hall of Fame.

In addition to spending the weekend in Orlando in June with the other SAMMY award recipients, Obolensky and Wolfe each received a $7,500 scholarship and a spot in a special milk mustache ad that ran in USA Today and feature issues of Sports Illustrated and ESPN magazine.

Natalia Obolensky



Jessica Wolfe

A panel of Milk Mustache athletes, including Jason Kidd, Marion Jones, Mat Hoffman, Mia Hamm, Pete Sampras, and Tony Hawk selected this year's SAMMY winners. The SAMMY program has awarded more than $1 million in college scholarships in the past six years.

Obolensky graduated at the top of her class from Lawrenceville School, was a student council representative, class representative and newspaper staff member. She was also named to the All-State team in cross country and track. Between school and sports, Obolensky still finds time to volunteer teaching Haitian immigrants to speak English.

"I'm honored to receive this award because it is such a whole award, integrating athletics, academics, and community service," Obolensky said. "It recognizes me not just as a scholar or an athlete or leader in the community, but as a whole person."

Wolfe was ranked in the top 1 percent of her class at Bishop Ireton High School and was a member of the National Honor Society, French Honor Society, and class treasurer. Her sports activities included track, cross country, indoor track, and basketball, and twice she was named as Alexandria City Athlete of the Year in cross-country. She volunteers in the Arlington Hospital maternity ward.

"This award is a recognition of all the hard work I've put into all my academics and athletics in high school," Wolfe said. "This award is important to me because it incorporates my achievements with something I love to do, drink milk!"

While recent research shows that milk consumption among teens is up for the second year in a row, many teens still swap milk for less nutritious beverages. With efforts like the annual SAMMY program, product innovation, teen-targeted advertising, and partnerships with teen favorites like MTV and Rolling Stone, the milk industry hopes to continue milk's momentum amongst this status-conscious crowd.

"SAMMY winners are role models for other teens because they understand that academics, athletics, and good health are keys to success," said Kurt Graetzer, CEO of the Milk Mustache Campaign, which sponsors the scholarship program.

QUESTION — G. Minckler, Wayne, wants recipes using rice flour.

QUESTION — Recipes needed to use end-of-summer produce such as tomatoes, corn, beans, and other vegetables.

QUESTION — Peaches and pears are so scrumptious in season, but how can I preserve them best to use later on, a reader inquires. Can they be frozen and used in dessert recipes? If so, how?

QUESTION — A Kutztown reader is searching for a recipe for German Swhwartze Brod (blackbread). The Baker and Mestermacher are some companies that make this naturally fermented, dark, solid bread with whole grains such as rye, sunflower, and 4-grain flours. She writes: It is a most nutritious tasting, satisfying snack with yellow butter spread on top. It's also great for breakfast.

QUESTION — Anyone have a recipe for blueberry whoopie pies? Through some glitch in the system this earlier request was dropped without a recipe being printed. Jeremie and others have requested one.

QUESTION — Mary Lockhard, Columbia, is looking for a recipe to make pear butter. She asks if the same ingredients are used as making apple butter except for substituting pears for apples.

QUESTION — A Coatesville reader wants a recipe for blueberry bars like the Amish sold at Steel City Farmers Market, Coatesville. The bars were very moist and had an icing glaze over the top.

QUESTION — Brenda Martin, Reinholds, wants a recipe to make soy sauce.

QUESTION — Nellie Ibach wants a recipe with exact amounts listed to make iced tea using regular tea bags and blue stem tea to give tea a minty flavor.

QUESTION — Joyce Shoemaker, Mount Joy, wants a recipe for stewed tomatoes with peppers, onions, and parsley. She likes the stewed tomatoes served at Country Table Restaurant.

QUESTION — Joyce Shoemaker, Mount Joy, wants a recipe for corn fries that taste like those served at Oregon Dairy Restaurant. She writes that the corn fries look like French fries.

QUESTION — Recipes and ideas are needed for using all types of summer fruits and vegetables.

QUESTION — A reader wants recipes and ideas for quick summertime cooking.

QUESTION — L. Kauffman would like a pepper recipe to can sweet peppers that taste like the B&G Sandwich Toppers available at supermarket. She knows it has some oregano in it.

ANSWER — Brenda Martin, Reinholds, wanted to know how to grind flax seed. Thanks to H. Werner for e-mailing that he uses an electric coffee grinder that works wells. Coffee grinders can be purchased at most department stores that sell appliances.

ANSWER — Thanks to Vera Zimmerman for sending in these recipes requested by a Lycoming County reader.

Mocha Almond Cheesecake

1 cup graham cracker crumbs
¼ cup packed brown sugar
¼ cup butter, melted
1 cup chopped, toasted almonds
3 (8-ounce) packages cream cheese, softened
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
⅛ teaspoon salt
3 large eggs
⅓ cup milk
½ teaspoon almond extract
1½ teaspoon instant coffee granules
1 tablespoon water
½ cup semisweet chocolate pieces, melted

Mix first three ingredients and ¾ cup almonds. Press into bottom and 1¾-inch up the sides of 9-inch springform pan. Set aside.

In large bowl at medium speed, beat cream cheese, sugar, vanilla, and salt until smooth, about one minute. At low speed, blend in milk.

Remove 2¼ cups batter to another bowl. Stir in almond extract and remaining ¼ cup almonds.

Dissolve instant coffee in water; add to remaining batter. Add melted chocolate; beat at low speed until blended.

Pour two-thirds of the almond batter into prepared pan. Slowly pour two-thirds of the chocolate batter directly in center of almond batter. Repeat with remaining almond and chocolate batters.

Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes.

Cheesecake will not be set in center. Cool. Cover; refrigerate six hours or overnight. Remove from pan. Makes 12-16 servings.

Mint Chocolate Cheesecake

1 cup wafer cookie crumbs
3 tablespoons butter, melted
3 (8-ounce) packages cream cheese, softened
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon peppermint extract
½ teaspoon vanilla
⅛ teaspoon salt
3 large eggs
⅓ cup milk
8 drops green food coloring
3 tablespoons water
1 cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces, melted
Sweetened whipped cream
Mint leaves
Candied violets

Mix first two ingredients. Press into bottom of springform 9-inch pan. Set aside.

In large bowl at medium speed, beat cream cheese, sugar, peppermint extract, vanilla, and salt until smooth — one minute. Add eggs, beat just until blended. At low speed, blend in milk and green food coloring. Pour into prepared pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 45 minutes. Cheesecake will not be set in center. Cool. Cover; refrigerate six hours or overnight. Remove from pan. Slide four strips of wax paper under edge of cake to keep plate clean.

With whisk, stir water into melted chocolate until smooth. Pour over top of cake. Quickly spread over top and sides. Refrigerate until set. Remove wax paper. Decorate with whipped cream, mint leaves, and candied violets. Makes 12-16 servings.

ANSWER — Here are two recipes from Rosalie Nolt, Lebanon, for those who need recipes for zucchini.

Stuffed Zucchini

4 medium zucchini
¼ pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
1 small onion, chopped
½ cup corn
1 tablespoon butter, melted
¼ teaspoon dried thyme
¼ teaspoon dried basil
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons ranch dressing
½ cup cheddar cheese, shredded, divided
4 cherry tomatoes, quartered

Cut a thin slice off bottom of zucchini so it sits flat. Cut a thin slice off top of zucchini. Scoop out pulp, leaving ¼-inch shell. Chop 1 cup pulp. Combine pulp, mushrooms, onion, and corn in microwave-safe bowl. Cover and microwave on high for two minutes; drain thoroughly. Stir in butter, thyme, basil, salt, pepper, ranch dressing, and ¼ cup cheese. Stuff into zucchini shells. Place stuffed zucchini in an 8-inch square baking dish. Bake at 350 degrees for 20-30 minutes or until heated. Top with remaining cheese and tomatoes. Return to oven for 1-2 minutes until cheese is melted.

Yield: 4 servings.

Zucchini Fritters

2 cups zucchini, shredded
Salt to taste
Pepper to taste
1 egg
1 teaspoon baking powder
3 tablespoon flour

Combine all ingredients in a bowl and beat well. Melt 1 tablespoon butter in frying pan. Drop zucchini mixture by spoonfuls into pan. Fry on both sides until done.

Here's a zucchini recipe that tastes like crushed pineapple. Preserve it to substitute for crushed pineapple in recipes. Recipe is from Nancy Kramer.

Pineapple Zucchini

Use large zucchini, peel and remove seeds. Cut into strips and put through food grinder. Drain in colander and then measure to make one gallon.

1 gallon ground zucchini
46-ounce can unsweetened pineapple juice
3 cups sugar
½ cup bottled lemon juice
½ teaspoon pineapple oil (optional)

Heat juice and sugar to boiling, stirring to dissolve sugar. Add squash, lemon juice, and pineapple oil if desired. Bring to a boil. Pack into clean pint jars leaving one-inch headspace. Process at 10 pounds pressure for 30 minutes. Yield: 10 pints.

ANSWER — Thanks to G. Minckler, Wayne, for sending a recipe to make creamsicle cupcakes from scratch. The same recipe can be used to make 2 9-inch cake layers, which had been requested by a York County reader.

Creamsicle Cupcakes

Cake:
1¾ cups granulated sugar
½ cup room-temperature butter
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon orange oil
1 tablespoon orange zest
¼ cup orange juice concentrate
1 teaspoon vanilla
⅓ cup vegetable oil
4 large eggs
3 cups unbleached all-purpose flour
¼ cup cornstarch
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup milk

Filling:
1 cup whipping or heavy cream
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ cup confectioners' sugar

Frosting:
¼ cup butter
¼ teaspoon salt
4 cups confectioners' sugar
¼ cup orange juice concentrate
½ cup heavy cream
1 tablespoon orange zest

In a large mixing bowl, beat together sugar, butter, salt, flavoring, and zest until fluffy. Beat in orange juice concentrate, vanilla, and vegetable oil. Add eggs, one at a time, beating until mixture is very fluffy.

In a separate bowl, whisk together flour, cornstarch, and baking powder. Add dry ingredients to the butter and egg mixture, alternately with milk, beating until well combined, about 2 minutes. Scrape the bottom and sides of bowl often.

Lightly grease and flour the cups of two 12-cup muffin pans, or two 9-inch round cake pans. For cupcakes, place a heaping ¼ cup batter in each well of the pans; for a cake, divide the batter between the two round pans. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 20-22 minutes (for cupcakes) 40-45 minutes for cake until edges have started to pull away from the sides of the pan. Cool the cupcakes for 5 minutes or the cake layers for 15 minutes before removing from pans.

Filling: Whip the heavy cream and vanilla until soft peaks form. Add the confectioners' sugar, and continue whipping until soft peaks have formed.

Frosting: Cream butter, salt, and sugar until smooth; then beat in the orange juice concentrate, cream, and zest.

Assembly: Make a ½-inch slit in the top of each cupcake with a paring knife. Put a demitasse or baby food spoon through the slit and twirl around to make a hollow for filling. Pipe no more than a tablespoon of the whipped cream filling into the center of the cupcake, then frost the tops. Or you can create a layer effect by splitting the cupcakes horizontally and putting the whipped cream in between the two halves. You lose the element of "surprise" but I doubt anyone will protest.

Refrigerate until ready to serve. Refrigerate any leftovers. Yield: 24 cupcakes or two 9-inch cake layers.

Poll-Ettes Awards Founders Scholarships

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The National Organization of Poll-Ettes (NOP) awarded two Poll-Ette founders scholarships on Thursday, July 17, during the awards banquet at the 2003 National Junior Hereford Expo (NJHE) in Indianapolis, Ind.

This is the first year for the NOP founders scholarship, which is designed to honor the women that began the NOP. The 2003 recipients are Emilie Miller, Womelsdorf, and Nick Alexander, St. Paul, Ind., both receiving $500 scholarships.

Emilie Miller is the 18-year-old daughter of Mike and Sheila Miller. She serves on the NJHE Board of Directors and was recently elected as secretary for the upcoming year. This fall she will be a freshman at Kansas State University majoring in animal science and industry with a pre-veterinary option. During the NJHE, she was also awarded with first place in the Pro-Performance Breeders Scholarship, where she received $300 and a package of 10 straws of semen and two AI certificates on the pro-performance breeder's bull of her choice.

Nick Alexander is the 21-year-old son of Richard and Diana Alexander. He will be entering his senior year at Purdue University and majoring in human resource management with a minor in agriculture economics. Alexander currently serves as the President of the Indiana Junior Hereford Association and just finished his term as a member of the steering committee for the successful 2003 National Junior Hereford Expo.

Grange Auction Generates Anticipation

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Make a list and check it twice — it'll be needed for the Berks County Grange Auction.

Saturday, Aug. 23 marks the 35th Annual Berks County Grange Auction to begin at 8:30 a.m. at the Leesport Farmer's Market, Leesport. Throughout the day 15 auctioneers will donate their time and talents to sell over 350 consigned lots of merchandise.

Adding to the excitement and uniqueness of this outdoor event, five auctioneers sell simultaneously. Buyers from across the county and even nearby states regularly attend the sale each year. They agree that making a list of merchandise to purchase is necessary if you want to be in the right place at the right time.

More than 1,400 buyers are expected to be present during the course of the day. Buyer numbers will be available in the main banquet facility beginning at 7 a.m. prior to the sale. A valid driver's license is necessary to register for a buyer number. Cash and PA checks accepted. All out-of-state checks must be accompanied by a bank letter.

Sellers can consign farm equipment and machinery on Thursday, Aug. 21, from noon-8 p.m. and Friday, Aug. 22, from 8 a.m.-8 p.m.

Household and lawn and garden items will be accepted Thursday, Aug. 21 and Friday, Aug. 22, from noon-8 p.m. No items will be accepted the day of the sale. Commission structure will provided upon consignment registration.

Concessions will be available from various departments of the Berks County Grange during the auction. The Family Activities Committee will provide breakfast and lunch. The Youth Department will offer fries and the Junior Department will be selling hand-dipped ice cream.

Commissions retained by the Berks County Grange are used as an operating budget to fund various community needs and appeals.

The STREAM MAP OF PENNSYLVANIA was completed in 1965 after a thirty-year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor.

The map sold extremely well—until it was lost several years later Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's years of work to a landfill.

Experts told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue.

The few remaining copies became prized fisherman's possessions, known to some as the "Lost Stream Map " Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps

Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true Karl Ings and Larry Seaman of Vivid Publishing, Inc , a Williamsport firm, found new technology that enabled them to reproduce and republish the map. Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day."

Before his death in 1993, Professor Higbee shared his knowledge of map making with Seaman and Ings, and supported the creation of new state stream maps. Stream maps now cover 18 states; New York, Michigan, Ohio, Maryland-Delaware, New Jersey, Northern California, Washington, Colorado, Wisconsin, Virginia, Missouri and 5 New England States. All 50 states will be available by the end of 2003.

Professor Higbee's maps are the first and only highly detailed maps of their kind.

Heritage Camp Scheduled August 13

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Winters Heritage House, 47 East High Street, is still accepting registrations for its final Heritage Camp of the summer on Wednesday, Aug. 13.

Heritage Camp is a fun, yet educational experience designed for children ages 7 to 12 years old. A solid hands-on curriculum and positive parental feedback have kept this living history program going strong for 12 years.

The next camp session will run from 9 a.m.-2 p.m., during which time a snack is provided. Campers bring only a brown bag lunch. The fee for 2003 Family members of the museum is $15 or $18 for non-members of the museum. The theme planned for Aug. 13 is Native Americans. Craft projects for girls and boys will include making a rainstick, roasting ears of corn, constructing a leather pouch, and an Indian Owner Stick.

Museum staff divide children into three groups based on age and skill level, while volunteer teachers and assistants guide the children through each planned activity. A number of local Girl Scouts, including Laura Ness, Michelle Cina, Rhiannon Eckinger, Katy Retherford, Meghan Moir, and Taylor Crum, have provided ongoing assistance with Heritage Camp and the museum's participation in the downtown Thursday Lunch Series.

Winters Heritage House seeks to preserve local history by engaging community support to identify buildings of historical significance; developing living history experiences; and documenting artifacts and archiving texts of historical value.

For more information or to register a child, call the museum at (717) 367-4672.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Would you believe that I am still picking a few sugar peas in August? As I did not pull them off of the fence, they bloomed and gave a second crop. And, the other week I was surprised to be given some plums to can. Our son has planted some fruit trees and the plum tree had a big crop this year. Some were used for plum jam too.

Our two rows of new strawberry plants has given me lots of work as I try to keep it clear of weeds. The last time that I hoed it there were deer tracks all through the patch. It is just a stone's throw from our house.

Recently, I read my mother's diary of 65 years ago. At that time she had seven girls at home to help her with household chores. She had her girls pick beans by the basket. But, instead of freezing them, as I do, she dried the green string beans. This definitely gave them a different flavor. She planted a lot of celery in the tobacco beds. That is something that I no longer grow as it is a lot of work to have bleached celery for Thanksgiving dinner. As one gets older it is a temptation to buy some vegetables from the grocery store.

Every other year our immediate family of 29 members tries to get together for a week's vacation. The emphasis is on "tries" as some members can only be with us a few days. This year they plan to gather in Tioga County to build a large cottage with three bedrooms. Some of our sons have almost grown sons who can help to finish the building. It will be a working vacation but that is the only way that it will be completed.

It Takes A Golden Touch To Examine Beehives

Varroa mites are the most devastating and biggest continuing problem for the industry. With high infestations, bees are noticeable with deformed wings and obvious weakness.

She shakes several bees from each hive into powdered sugar.

This monitors the presence of Varroa mites in the hive and determines the threshold of tolerance the bees have to the mites," Troutman explained.

She scoops up about a half of cup of bees (about 250 bees) from the brood frame and ptus them into a glass jar. She adds about two tablespoons powdered sugar, and tightens the lid on the jar.

The mites are parasites that would be clamped to the bee's body, sucking its blood. The powdered sugar on the bees irritate the mites and causes them to fall off the bees. By shaking the jar, the mites come out of the powdered sugar and can easily be seen in the sugar.

Varroa mites are about the size of a pin head and are reddish brown. It they are present during the powdered sugar test, the mites are usually laying on their backs in the sugar, kicking their legs. This helps to determinethe mite levels that might be in the hive.

Less than five mites might be a level the bees can tolerate without medication. More than 20 mites indicate a severe infection that requires treatment, or the hive will collapse.

All medicines used on a honey beehive are strictly regulated by the government. Medicines should only be used before or after honey flow so that no chemical comes in contact with the honey.

Of the many different diseases and viruses that attack hives, Troutman said, "If I don't have an answer, I look it up," she said of relying on what she calls her "bible" — "Honey Bee Pest, Predators, and Diseases."

Not every harmful invader is a virus or bacteria. Hives are often damaged by skunks, bears, raccoons, mice, squirrels, opossums, chipmunks, and livestock.

Irresponsible pesticide use can kill a whole colony of bees.

Farmers and orchardists should spray early in the morning or late in the evening when bees are not flying. Fields and trees should not be sprayed during the blooming season such as an alfalfa field covered with dandelions.

"I love the job," Troutman said of bee inspection. "I wanted to meet more beekeepers. I learn from them, and hopefully they learn something from me."

Renee said that if 10 beekeepers are in a room, they'll probably have 12 different answers to a question. Each one has a slightly different perspective from which she gains information.

She maintains 25 of her own hives in four different locations. She sells honey privately.

"This hasn't been a good honey year," Troutman said of the impact weather has on production. "Rain dilutes nectar and the bees can't fly."

The harsh winter also played a toll on beehives. "Lots of beekeepers lost 70-80 percent of their hives. There's lots of disease because bees are so stressed from the long, cold weather and wet spring.

"Good bee weather helps diseases clear up," Troutman said. Beehives kept in a sunny location are also healthier, and the bees are happier.

"Bees housed in full shade are more aggressive, and not as productive," Troutman said.

Many broods starved in May because working bees could not collect enough nectar to feed the hive. Many beekeepers provided sugar syrup to help nourish their beehives.

The small harvest of honey causes prices to rise.

"Beekeeping is an expensive hobby, but very rewarding," Troutman said. Of living on a dairy farm with her husband, Troutman said, "I like to milk cows, but bees are definitely my thing."

To learn more about beekeeping or to find a local beekeeping association in your area, call the Pennsylvania State Beekeepers Association, (570) 673-8201.

Any questions about registering hives and inspections, call Dennis van Englesdorp at the Pennsylvania Department of Ag (717) 772-5225.

Ron Rinehart, beekeeper, and Renee Troutman, bee inspector, examine hive for signs of disease or viruses.

Sign of a healthy hive can be determined by the appearance. A healthy hive has lots of bees, a solid brood pattern, and a healthy capped brood. During inspections, Troutman looks for punctured capping, indicating that the larva has died from a disease and the bees have attempted to open that cell to remove and clean up the dead larva.

Whitetail Wetlands Offers Getaway

might choose to play it themselves. It's a perfect room for after-dinner cocktails or sing-alongs. A wide porch with a sofa bed invites some to snooze outside on a moonlit summer evening.

There are additional two bedrooms, two private baths, and a kitchenette. Most guests prefer to prepare their own meals while some will take the short drive to Bedford seeking out restaurants and shopping.

A close-up view of a killdeer egg which never hatched.

This glass-walled bedroom doubles as a reception area.

Still others test Connie's culinary skills.

The wetlands themselves are reached by mowed paths and dikes around the impoundment's where one can watch the numerous species of waterfowl feed, mate and nest. Recently, an extended family of Canada geese watched their fluffy offspring turn into teen-agers.

"Then, it will be flight school time," says Connie. "It is such a joy to watch those youngsters learn to fly."

To date there have been 72 species of waterfowl sighted in the wetlands; 16 species of raptors, more then 100 songbirds, twelve species of amphibians and reptiles, 33 species of butterflies and 90 of moth and 40 plus of dragon and damselfies.

All of this has added to the mammal populations and plant life.

The wetlands had been made as accessible as possible with golf carts and hay wagon rides in the summer and sleigh rides in the winter. Bicycles and horses with stable accommodations are welcome. Four-wheelers are prohibited.

Guests to date have been mostly from the Pittsburgh/ Harrisburg area although some have come from as far away as Florida. The wetlands is associated with both the Audubon Society and Ducks Unlimited. For those who live so close they might not want to stay overnight, day passes are available for a nominal fee. Other groups such as church organizations, women's groups, etc. might wish to come for a meal, a wagon ride, and a social time on the wide front porch.

Jerry says he only wishes more farmers would think about doing this with wet spots on their farms. They would be doing both mankind and nature a favor.

For more information on the wetlands, take a look at Connie's extensive website at whitetailwetlands.com

Whitetail Wetlands can be reached by writing to P.O. Box 368, New Paris, Pa., 15554, or calling (814) 839-2622. They can be E-mailed at HYPERLINK mailto:wtwetlands@pennswoods.net wtwetlands@pennswoods.net.

How 'A Mazing'

WYALUSING (Bradford Co.) — How "A Mazing" would it be to find your way through a four-mile maze?

How "A Mazing" would it be to find your way through twists and turns of a 13-acre cornfield?

The Howard Family farm welcomes everyone to come see "How A Mazing" it is starting September 6 at their corn maze in Homet Ferry.

Richard Howard first got the idea to build a maze after doing some research on the Internet. Howard found Rob Stouffer, Lee's Summit, Mo., who worked with farmers out west using the Global Position System (GPS) to cut out a maze using his G.P.S.

After his call to Rob, Rich discussed with the family the possibility of using one of the farm's corn fields for their own maze. Rob gave them a choice of designing their own or having a precut design done, which was at more cost to the Howard Family farm. So, the family got together and came up with their own design. After Rob arrived he took the Howard's corn maze design and transformed it into his GPS. The next day he began his task of cutting out the maze. The maze had to be cut at an early stage of the corn growth so that the corn would grow up to the design.

Beginning September 6, the Howard family will open the gate of their corn maze to the public with hours each weekend, and by reservation only during the week. Groups are welcome.

For more information, contact the Howard Family Farm (570) 746-1883 or email at drhoward@sosbbs.com.

Well Preserved

The Well Preserved news column is prepared by Lancaster County Cooperative Extension. It includes food preservation information and questions.

Potatoes

As one of the most popular vegetables, potatoes are seldom canned or frozen by the home food preserver. However, the manner in which fresh potatoes are stored will have an impact on their quality.

Store potatoes in a cool, dark place that is well ventilated. The ideal storage temperature is 45-50F. Do not refrigerate potatoes because potatoes stored below 40F will develop a sweet taste due to the conversion of starch to sugar. This increased sugar will cause potatoes to darken when cooked especially at high temperatures.

Sometimes you will find purple discoloration in the center and veins of some potatoes. This is caused by cold temperatures which could be related to harvesting as well as home storage. The potato is perfectly fine to eat.

Cold temperatures also cause potatoes to turn black or gray when cooked. While storing potatoes in the refrigerator is not recommended, if you do, letting the potato warm gradually to room temperature before cooking can reduce the discoloration.

Prolonged exposure to light causes potatoes to turn green. The green on the skin of a potato is the build-up of a chemical called Solanine, which produces a bitter taste and, if eaten in large quantity, can cause illness. However, this is unlikely because of the bitter taste. If there is slight greening, cut away the green portions of the potato skin before cooking and eating it.

A warm, moist environment encourages sprouting of potatoes. Sprouts are a sign that the potato is trying to grow. Cut the sprouts away before cooking or eating the potato.

Can potatoes be frozen? The results will depend upon the type of potato used, its age, and your standards of taste. It is not generally recommended that potatoes be frozen because of their high water content which, when frozen, separates from the starch causing the reheated potato dish to become watery. Nevertheless, if you have lots of potatoes you may want to try. Prepare a small quantity first to see what you think of the results.

Some guidelines for success. Choose new, smaller potatoes, of the waxy type such as red or gold potatoes.

The following suggestions for freezing potatoes come from the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension.

Garden Potatoes: Freeze them when they are about 1 to 1 ½ inches in diameter. Wash and scrub the potatoes, leaving the skins on, if desired. Blanch 4 to 6 minutes if smaller than 1 to 1 ½ inches, 8 to 10 minutes if larger. Cool, drain, and pack. To cook; add the frozen potatoes to enough boiling water to cover. Cook about 15 minutes or until tender.

French Fries: Commercially these are fast-frozen giving a different quality than home frozen fries. However, if you wish to try your own, wash, peel, and cut potatoes into ⅜ inch strips. Rinse them quickly in cold water to remove the surface starch. Drain well. Spread the strips in a single layer on a shallow pan. Brush with melted butter. Bake in a preheated oven at 450 F until golden brown and tender. Turn occasionally. Cool in the refrigerator, then pack, label, and freeze. To cook the frozen fries, bake on a shallow pan in a preheated 450 F oven until brown and tender. Turn occasionally. Salt to taste.

Mashed Potatoes: Prepare mashed potatoes as usual. Let cool quickly, and form into ½ inch thick patties. Place on a cookie sheet and freeze. As soon as they are frozen solid, pack them in containers or freezer bags. Label and place packages in the freezer. To serve, fry potatoes in butter until brown or brush them with melted fat and broil. They may also be defrosted in the microwave oven, topped with cheese, and cooked at 80 percent power until they are hot and the cheese melted.

Stuffed Baked Potatoes. Remove the cooked potato from the skin. Mash it; then return it to the skin. Add milk, butter, and seasoning if desired. Wrap and freeze. To serve, remove the wrap and bake in a 425-degree oven for 30 minutes. Use within 2 to 4 weeks.

If you have food preservation questions, a home economist is available to answer questions on Wednesdays 10:00 a.m.1:00 p.m. Call (717) 394-6851 or write Penn State Cooperative Extension, Lancaster County, 1383 Arcadia Rd., Rm.1, Lancaster, PA, 17601.

Forget Curds, Watch For Whey

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Whey is the thin, watery part of milk that separates from curds during cheese-making. Although whey is mostly water, it contains whey protein — a complete protein that offers all of the amino acids the body needs in the right balance.

The most obvious place to find whey protein naturally is in good old-fashioned milk. Milk is about 3.5 percent protein by weight, and about 20 percent of that protein is whey protein. The protein in yogurt is also 20 percent whey protein. You might think cottage cheese would be a good source, too, but it's not: After being cooked and curdled, it is rinsed to remove lactose, and that also removes most of the whey protein.

But whey protein is also in a lot of other products. With more than 8 billion pounds of cheese produced each year, you can imagine how much whey is around. Unfortunately, as late as 1980, about half of the whey produced in the United States was dumped into streams as a waste product.

Eventually, cheese-makers realized there's no use letting such a high-quality protein go to waste. Thanks to research (partly done by food scientists at Ohio State University), whey protein products have improved and are used extensively in the food industry.

For example, whey protein concentrate helps shortening disperse evenly in baked goods. Whey powder helps icings, toppings and cream fillings whip and foam more easily. Because of their high solubility and superior emulsification properties, whey protein products are also used in soups, sauces and salad dressings. Whey is also used as a high-quality source of protein in energy bars, and is sold in the form of protein powders at health food stores.

Whey's health advantages are still being uncovered. For instance, Ohio State University research recently showed whey protein can increase the level of a certain antioxidant, glutathione, in human prostate cells — at least in the lab. Glutathione helps fight free radicals that can cause cancer.

You ask ou answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Or, you may e-mail questions and answers to LGOOD.EPH@LNPNEWS.COM

Please clarify what question you are answering when responding.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it. However, if your question requires someone to mail items to you, you must include your address or phone number for publishing.

QUESTION — Amy Marple, Mullica Hill, N.J., wants to know where to purchase Pride of Wisconsin cantaloupe seed. Her father grew them in the 1950s. The cantaloupe were of great size and excellent flavor, she writes.

QUESTION — Bruce Nattiess, Fleetwood, wants to know if anyone knows of a source to buy replacement tips for the cone on a Woodbuster PTO driven log splitter. Or, perhaps a reader has an extra one to sell. Call (610) 944-9162.

QUESTION — Betty Jakum, Littlestown, wants to know where to purchase a gasoline-powered rotary lawn mower that cuts 18 inches or less to use for trimming.

QUESTION — Mary Sasscer, Maryland, is looking for a Dick and Jane reader that dates back to about 1943-1944. The book contained a story about a neighbor who was restoring an old rocking horse, which was white with dapple spots on the rump and the platform was red. Mary has a rocking horse like the one in the story and has always remembered the story. Hers had leather ears, real horse hair mane and tail, a saddle, bridle, and reins. She would like to have the book to keep with her rocking horse. The rocking horse is well over 100 years of age and belonged to her father. Any information on the Dick and Jane reader would be appreciated. Call her at (301) 627-5178.

QUESTION — Dick Herring wants to know where to find railroad ties.

QUESTION — Jennifer is trying to locate an article that she believes appeared in one of our June issues about a father and son team from the Allentown/Lehigh area who specialize in painting old farmhouses. Anyone know to whom she is referring?

QUESTION — Diane Gray, 70 Damascus Rd., Blandon, PA 19510, wants information and bottles from the former Lebanon or Lebanon Valley Dairy.

QUESTION — W. Spence Haines, Lansdale, has several push, old-style reel mowers, which she heard may have some value. She asks how she can find out the worth of the mowers.

QUESTION — Jean W., Newmanstown, wants to buy the book, "It Happened in the Hills of Kentucky," by John Vogel, copyrighted 1952. Call (717) 949-2846.

QUESTION — C. Faus, Hegins, wants to know how to store raw vegetables such as carrots, squash, kohlrabi, and more to store for winter use.

QUESTION — Nicolette Wagman, Seven Valleys, is doing research for a book about musical instruments and makers in York County. She wants information and photographs of instruments and their makers from any era. Call her at (717) 428-1856.

QUESTION — Shirley Schwoerner, Wysox, writes that some time ago she had clipped an answer in this column from Joyce Raubenstine who told how to make creams from aloe vera. The instructions were unclear, and she asks if someone can tell her the exact amount of aloe vera to use. The directions she has are as follows: To prepare a herb ointment or salve, crush the leaves of the aloe vera and mix with four parts melted fat (lard or shortening) and one part dry white wine. Heat gently for 20 minutes. Cool slightly and strain.

Shirley writes that her husband's chronic back problem was aggravated during haymaking. She rubbed aloe vera leaves on his back, and it helped instantly. He was amazed. It was a sloppy procedure, so they'd like to make the salve if possible.

Shirley adds a bit of humor by writing that she can't boil water without a 3x5 card, "so you can see my problem with the aloe vera (instructions)."

QUESTION — Kenneth Wirtz, White Hall, Md., is having trouble finding replacement parts for his electric three-point hitch that is on a 10HP Sears garden tractor purchased in 1977. The parts are no longer available through Sears. The item is Model number 917.253130 electric 3-point hitch. Wirtz would appreciate hearing from someone who no longer uses the part. He doesn't need the complete hitch, just the power assist lift. He is willing to pay a fair price for the item. Call him at (410) 329-2175.

QUESTION — Sharon Heller writes that they have 75 acres in Perry County. About half of the acreage is mowed by a neighbor who sells the ⅓ ton mixed hay rolls for his own profit. She wants to know how to find an average rental for the acreage. What is the best way to advertise the available acreage?

QUESTION — Cindy Eshleman, R.3, Box 7957, Jonestown, PA 17038, wants to know what day of the week the Selingsgrove Horse Sale is conducted. Also, she asks, if a sequel was written to "Gone With the Wind" and "Scarlett"? If so, what is the title of the book? Eshleman also wants the May 2003 issue of "Paper Horse." She is willing to pay postage.

QUESTION — Mike White, Bernville, writes that the last few years, he has a problem with black birds (grackels) after he plants field corn. When the corn first comes up until it is two to three weeks old, the birds either pull out the small plants or tear them off. This year, he had to replant a three-acre field because of the destruction the birds caused. No one else in the area seems to have a problem, but White has witnessed the birds digging and pulling out the corn. It seems the area is hardest hit on the hills where the morning sun first shines. He has tried scarecrows, which only works in a 20-feet area around the scarecrow. Any help or suggestions will be appreciated.

QUESTION — Marie Hixson, Crystal Spring, wants to know how to grow wild rice. They live on a farm with some wet areas that she believes would be suitable for growing rice. Anyone know where she can find information?

QUESTION — Warren Glidewell, Bloomsburg, wants to know where to find Flemish giant rabbits in a fawn color.

QUESTION — C. Gutshall, Carlisle, is looking for proper cleaning instructions for printed cotton seed sacks made in the 1940s. She also would like a Web site address that offers information on older cotton and burlap feed sacks.

QUESTION — Eugene Maute, 327 Asbury Ave., Elkins Park, PA 19027 wants to know who sells thick, clear, flexible plastic sheeting like that used to make seat covers. Maute wants to buy several yards.

ANSWER — A reader wanted to know what causes swimmers in a farm pond to become itchy the morning after swimming in the pond. It looks like mosquito bites over their bodies and they are very itchy. Thanks to a reader for writing that they believe the problem may be what is known as "swimmer's itch, caused by cercariae, a larval form of animal flat worms penetrates the epidermal skin layer. After penetration, these parasites remain and die, causing an allergic reaction in some people. The embedded parasite does not mature, reproduce or create a permanent infection. Symptoms usually appear from 5 minutes to two hours after exposure. Some people experience a tingling or burning sensation. At each point of penetration, a raised, red spot will develop on the skin. The spot may increase in size during the first 24-30 hours. Itching may last as long as a week. In some people, itching may subside for 10-15 hours and then re-occur with greater intensity. Some individuals may develop blisters, which may later become pustules. Symptoms typically disappear within a week. Most cases do not require medical attention. May treat it with calamine or anti-itch lotions. Also baking soda paste and baths may help. Avoid scratching or the skin reaction my worsen or become infected. Swimmer's itch does not necessarily mean the water is polluted. Birds and snails are potential hosts, which propagate the occurrence. You can try to reduce pond vegetation so that snails do not have an ideal environment to grow. For detailed information about swimmer's itch go to the Website: www.bunganutlake.org/itch.htm.

ANSWER — Harriet Newlin, 1287 Ridge Rd., Grantville, PA 17028, requested names and addresses of Amish families who serve meals in their homes. Marian Martin sent in this name: Jacob and Naomi King, 707 W. Elizabethtown Rd., Manheim, PA 17545.

ANSWER — Gene Maute, Elkins Park, and the Bellers wrote that they received answers to their questions through this paper. Many people such as Maute write that they find this column very interesting and look forward to reading it each week. So, keep those answers coming. In case anyone else is interested in clear, flexible plastic, Amy Marple, Mullica Hill, N.J., writes that it is sold by the yard at WalMart.

ANSWER — Virginia Snyder, Millersburg, wanted to know where to find Fullers Earth Powder and also Cuticura soap. Thanks to David Anspach for writing that it is sold at Websites www.stuffjulielikes.com and www.drugstore.com.

ANSWER — For the reader who wanted the name of a father and son team who do house pointing on old farmhouses, Jenny Coffey believes it is L&N Construction, Sinking Spring.

Pleasant Hills Hay and Dairy Farm was the site of Lycoming County Farm-City Day.

Farm-City Day At Lycoming Dairy

REGINA STEPPE
Lycoming Co. Dairy Princess

WILLIAMSPORT (Lycoming Co.) — Pleasant Hills Hay and Dairy Farm is a five-generation, family run, century farm. It is owned and operated by my parents, James and Deborah Steppe, with help from their family of nine children.

The farm consists of 240 acres where we milk 60 head of Holstein. My family is one of the largest commercial hay growers in Lycoming County. My father was awarded the 1999 Outstanding Conservation Cooperator of the year. We consider ourselves very fortunate to have been given the honor of having Farm-City Day 2003 conducted on our farm.

More than 1,000 people visited Pleasant Hills Farms.

There were various displays and informational tables set up. Among those was that of my Lycoming County Dairy Royalty. My court, which includes two alternate dairy princesses, six maids, and two misses were present to assist me in selling brownie sundaes and t-shirt's. We also had a table of free goodies, like cow and cheese erasers, recipe brochures, and got milk pencils and stickers.

We also made homemade butter from real heavy cream, using an antique butter churn. Butter is made by chruning the heavy cream in the churn until thick, and then draining off the excess liquid called buttermilk. The finished product is wonderful, tasty butter. You can also add a pinch of salt for taste. This demonstration showed what things were like long ago.

This property also has an out building which has been used for an implement shed. The barn has hay & straw mow, tobacco timbers, as well as lots of storage & open area. This property is in need of some repair but is an outstanding property on a rural, country setting. The land is flat, the buildings are solid & this property could be ideal for many types of uses This property will be sold at 12:00 noon on the property during the auction of the personal property.
Tract #2: Consists of 3.5 acres of farmland. The lot is approximately 1.5 miles south of tract #1. The lot had been considered a prime building lot in the past and also could contain other uses. The tract of land is at the corner of Sunnyburn Rd and Cold Spring Rd and is also in Mount Joy Township. Look for auction signs. This tract of land will be sold at 4:00 PM on site.
Tract #3: Consists of 3.1 acres of woodland along Sportsman's Lane off of Church Road in Mount Joy Township. This property is in a very quiet area of the Township and has lots of wildlife nearby as well as a local golf course. Again, this is a beautiful tract of land with several possibilities. Look for auction signs. This tract of land will be sold at 5:00 PM on site.
All parcels are zoned agricultural & are in the Elizabethtown School District. Zoning questions can be directed to Mr. Forry at Mount Joy Township Municipal Office 717-653-4959.

Anna and Horace Wilson explain how this rare 1700s' corn planter was used. The Wilsons recently displayed several pieces from their collection called "Home and Farm Antiques" at the Kimberton Fair.

Home And Farm Antiques Highlight Ag's Progression

Food And Family Features Editor

KIMBERTON (Chester Co.) — A rare 1700s corn planter caught the attention of Kimberton fair-goers recently.

Anna and Horace Wilson displayed a part of their collection they call "Home and Farm Antiques."

The 1700s corn planter is a treasured piece that Anna said she purchased 15 years ago.

"When we saw the piece advertised at an auction, my husband said, "Take the checkbook," Anna said.

She did. The Wilsons now have a fascinating piece to show to people who like to see how farming was done in the old days.

Different size plates are in place to use varying kernel sizes. The planter plowed a row, dropped a kernel, and rolled the soil over the kernel in one process.

"It is," Anna responded.

"We cleaned out our attic and built a five-car garage to display our collection. Now that's full of stuff and so is our cow stable," Wilson said.

Antiques connoisseurs often look at the Wilsons' collection with envy.

The Wilsons are happy to show their collection to people who call in advance.

For an appointment to see the antiques, call (610) 933-6670.

According to the Wilsons, this 1838 meat grinder is the same as that displayed in the Smithsonia Institute.

Corn planting was a laborious job when this item was used. Horace Wilson and his wife have a series of corn planters that show the advances made in developing equipment to make farming easier.

Bid On Antiques, More At Ag Progress Days' Silent Auction

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Early Christmas shopping and bargain hunting will be combined when the Pasto Agricultural Museum conducts its fourth silent auction during Penn State's Ag Progress Days, Tuesday, Aug. 19 and Wednesday, Aug. 20. Almost 150 items ranging from Penn State/Ohio State football tickets to a new John Deere lawn tractor and new Massey Ferguson tractor blade have been donated according to museum volunteer curator Darwin Braund.

"Buyers will find items to meet practically any interest, need, and checking account," Braund said.

"Donors have been very generous in supplying a wide variety of useful items to help generate funds to preserve the rich heritage of agriculture and rural living. Proceeds will benefit the Penn State Ag Alumni Endowment for the Pasto Agricultural Museum."

Items for bid include antique hand and farm tools, scale, butter churn, iron kettles, miner's basket, newer and antique model tractors and trucks, meats from the University Meats Lab, and Penn State Creamery cheese.

Farm production items include bull semen, cow stall mat, ten tons of shredded and baled newsprint for animal bedding, fencing supplies, alfalfa and corn seed, a four-year subscription to Lancaster Farming and a three-year subscription to Farm and Dairy newspapers.

Items that might make good gifts include an ox yoke, photographs and prints, gift baskets, fresh peaches, a hanging corner cupboard, antique pewter ice cream molds, milk bottles, Penn State sports balls, clothes, and DVDs.

Equine enthusiasts looking for a Western Pleasure saddle will find one in excellent condition. Donated by the family of James P. (Jim) Gallagher in memory of the former Penn State extension specialist, it was his personal saddle. With a rich medium oil color and silver trim, it has a 15½-inch seat.

Collectors of brass bells will have many choices. Included are four sets of sleigh bells on leather straps, three sets of Conestoga Wagon bells (three, four, and five bell sets), four sets of sleigh shaft bells, two sets of hames bells, and two school hand bells.

New this year will be a cash and carry section. Buyers of these items won't have to bid and wait until the end of the auction. They can pay cash for each specially marked item and take it with them upon completion of the transaction. Early arrivals will have the advantage in this section.

Bidding will close promptly at 3 p.m. on Wednesday. Successful bidders can pick up their items after payment (cash or good check) is processed Wednesday.

Colorful Majolica Has Long History

There is Majolica that is currently popular with collectors, and there is "Maiolica," the earliest known form of this tin-glazed pottery.

A couple of decades ago it was Maiolica that brought the biggest price at auction. These days it is the 19th century Majolica that gets bidders' attention, with prices often running into the high thousands. However the more common-place forms such as jugs and candlesticks sell at auction for $300 to $700.

Historically the earliest pieces of Maiolica was made in Spain as early as the eighth century. By the 12th century it appeared all over Italy. By the 19th century Majolica was made in England, France Germany and America. It differed in appearance from the earlier Maiolica using brightly colored, heavy white earthenware with embossed nature motifs.

When you look at its prices today it is hard to believe that some of it was given as premiums in American grocery stores. On the other hand, in England, revered names like Wedgwood and Minton and Company created some Majolica masterpieces in everything from serving dishes to whimsical figurines, monumental vases, and urns.

In the late 1970s there were few serious Majolica collectors. So out-of-fashion was it that some examples turned up at flea markets covered with white paint.

It was carefully removed by savvy collectors. Prices in those days for even unusual pieces were from five dollars to $50 in American shops.

When Herbert Minton, of the long respected Minton pottery firm, first introduced his "imitation Majolica," at the English Great Exhibition of 1851, he acknowledged he had been influenced by the early Maiolica" of the Italian Renaissance.

While there was interest in his works, it wasn't until other displays at such exhibitions as the 1853 New York Crystal palace Exhibition, that Majolica caught on. From then on it was known as Victorian Majolica. With it's bright, often gaudy colors and excess of motifs it was symbolic of the Victorian "design overkill." The perfect example were a pair of eight four-inch-high Majolica elephants made by Minto for the Paris exhibition of 1889.

Wedgwood, known for its classical subjects, monochrome decoration and low-relief ornaments in contrasting colors, began making Majolica by the 1860s. The colors of bright blues, greens, yellows, and browns were a radical change. Popular motifs, like those of Minton, were nature, oriental and Egyptian motifs, historical and mythological. There were also the always popular sea creatures and shell motifs.

Staffordshire, Worcester, and former potters with Minton, such as George Jones, began making Majolica.

In America, Majolica was made from the late 1870s to 1900, when the public had tired of it and moved on to the newer craze of art pottery.

CLUES: The green English leaf plates and the fish form pitcher have been reproduced for many years. Since much Majolica has no maker's signatures, knowing glazes and forms is a help. Wedgwood had impressed marks. George Jones pieces, considered to be choice, can be recognized by their mottled green and brown glazed undersurface.

Washington County Antique Tractor Club Show Is Aug. 22-24

HAGERSTOWN, Md. — The Washington County Antique Tractor Club plans its 11th annual Antique Tractor and Craft Show for Aug. 22-24 at The Washington County Agriculture Education Center.

Showcased this year are Allis Chalmers tractors and equipment.

The Rural Heritage Museum will be open Saturday and Sunday during the show. The 7,200 square-foot museum contains more than 2,000 items displayed in 26 exhibit areas depicting early rural life in Washington County.

Friday features a garden tractor pull at 6 p.m. Stock, altered stock, and pro stock classes.

Saturday events include kids games (corn shelling, corn cob throw, egg toss) starting at 1 p.m. Kids' pedal tractor race is 2 p.m. Parade of antique tractors is 3 p.m. Antique tractor pull is 4 p.m. for tractor models 1965 and older, including stock and open classes.

Sunday events feature a kids' pedall pull at 1 p.m., parade of antique tractors at 2 p.m. Bake auction at 3 p.m. with raffle drawing for an Allis-Chalmers pedal tractor and other cash giveaways.

Admission is free. The showground is located at 7313 Sharpsburg Pike (Rt. 65) near Hagerstown, Md., 7 miles south of intersection I-70 and Md. Rt. 65.

For more information, call David Lowry (301) 739-7604. For tractor pull information, call Doug Diehl (301) 491-5054.

Recognize This Item?

A reader wants to know the purpose of this Coca Cola item, which is 8½-inches in diameter and 10-inches high. It turns on a base like a lazy susan. The top lid has two screws. The inside bottom comes to a point and resembles the shape of an ice cream cone turned upside down. It has a 38-inch long chain attached with a key ring on the end. He thinks it is made of Plexiglas.

Bill Kitsch Hired By MidAtlantic Farm Credit

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Jeff Tyson, regional vice president, has announced the hiring of William "Bill" Kitsch as an account executive for MidAtlantic Farm Credit's Penn region.

The Penn region consists of fifteen counties in southeastern Pennsylvania. Kitsch will work from MidAtlantic's Lancaster office with customers in Berks, Chester, and Lancaster counties.

Prior to joining the staff at MidAtlantic, Bill has worked as a dairy consultant and most recently as a financial advisor. "We feel Bill's background in the financial field will be an asset to the customers and our existing loan staff," states Tyson.

Kitsch grew up in New Jersey and graduated from Buena Regional High School in Buena, New Jersey. He holds a B.S. degree in agribusiness from Delaware Valley College. He resides in Mohnton, Berks County, with his wife and two children.

CNH Reports Second Quarter 2003 Profit

LAKE FOREST, Ill. — CNH Global N.V. (NYSE:CNH) recdently reported net income of $36 million, or $.27 per share, for the second quarter of 2003. Consistent with the company's forecast, CNH's second quarter bottom line, excluding restructuring charges of $20 million, net of tax, was $56 million, compared to $45 million for the second quarter of 2002, before restructuring charges of $6 million, net of tax.

For the first half of 2003, CNH reported a net loss of $10 million, or $.08 per share, including restructuring charges of $26 million, net of tax. Excluding restructuring charges, net of tax, in both years, and excluding the cumulative effect of a change in accounting principle in 2002, CNH recorded a profit of $16 million in the first half of 2003, compared to a loss of $1 million for the same period last year.

"We continue to deliver bottom line results consistent with our plan, confirming our goal to bring CNH into the black for 2003, excluding restructuring charges," Paolo Monferino, CNH president and chief executive officer said. "With our improved balance sheet, CNH is ideally positioned for profitability improvements regardless of market conditions. New, higher margin products on the agricultural side of the business will positively contribute to the bottom line this year and in the future."

Second quarter net sales of agricultural equipment: Net sales of agricultural equipment increased to $1.956 billion for the quarter, compared to $1.778 billion in the seco..d quarter of 2002. Net of favorable currency, revenues were essentially unchanged. During the quarter, CNH under-produced agricultural equipment retail demand by 13 percent and continued its aggressive actions to reduce dealer stocks.

Second quarter 2003 industry unit sales of agricultural equipment in North and Latin America improved significantly compared to the second quarter of 2002. In North America, industry sales improved across all tractor segments with substantial gains in the under 40 horsepower segment, while combine sales were down slightly. In Europe, agricultural equipment industry sales declined slightly across all major product categories.

Retail unit sales of CNH agricultural equipment increased in the quarter, particularly combines, for which sales both in Europe and North America increased year-over-year in spite of the industry decline. For over 40 horsepower tractors, CNH kept pace with the industry in North America and in Western Europe.

Garst Announces 2004 New Corn Hybrids

SLATER, Iowa — There has been an evolution at Garst Seed Company over the past two years. Garst has introduced 60 new corn products, with 12 of these new corn hybrids being added to the product range beginning this summer.

Over the last two years, this group of new products included 46 corn products (77 percent) that carry at least one value added trait. Several of these products are G-STAC or gene stacked — the combination of multiple traits being added to a single product. This group of new products from Garst covers a wide maturity range from 83 to 120 days GRM (General Relative Maturity).

All new corn products are brought to the market under Garst's "best product" strategy. This means that no new product will reach the market if it doesn't offer growers a higher standard of performance over current products. In addition, new products are also developed to provide growers with new solutions to agronomic and management challenges.

"Utilizing our best product strategy ensures that our Garst customers are using hybrids that have been through many stages of research, development, testing, and in-field evaluation trials," said Jeff Sernett, corn product manager for Garst Seed Company. "We are also excited because Garst will soon introduce the YieldGard® Rootworm (YG2) trait for the 2004 planting season. We are in the final product evaluation stage and 2004 will be the first year that Garst has offered this technology in our commercial products. Our goal with YieldGard® Rootworm technology is not to be first, but instead to build the best product offerings combining high performance genetics with this value added trait. It is easy to be first; yet takes commitment to be the best."

YieldGard® Rootworm offers growers in-plant protection against Northern, Western, and Mexican Rootworms and is more convenient and safer than soil-applied insecticides for growers and the environment. In addition, the expanded 2004 product line offers a very broad array of other herbicide and insect protection traits.

In August and September, Garst will be hosting "Garst Field Days" where growers can preview hybrids slated for next year's planting season. For more information about a "Garst Field Day" near you, contact your local Garst DSM or call (888) GO GARST.

FHX 300 FORAGE HARVESTER & 600 FORAGE BLOWER In Stock!
New Case IH FHX300 TOP-CAPACITY HARVESTING

Discover the productivity advantages of the new Case IH FHX300 forage harvester This high capacity harvester makes fast work of your corn and hay acres, and quickly turns your forage crops into high-quality silage

Heavy-duty design. The FHX300 was expressly designed for use with high-horsepower tractors — those from 180 to 300 horsepower The wide, 24 4 in (620 mm) that opening swallows your heaviest crops, while the 1000-rpm driveline, heavy-duty components and wide crop heads are made to harness big-tractor horsepower and turn it into high-capacity harvesting performance You control FHX300 operations right from your tractor seat using electric standard hydraulic tongue swing.

Our Experience Is Anything But Green...
Rotary Specialists for 27 Years

The new AFX 8010 will make you even more productive with the following enhancements:

More Efficient Threshing Process

The new AFX rotor uses enhanced graduated pitch impellers to promote smooth crop flow and increase rotor throughput capacity in tough conditions by up to 25%. In addition, the transition cone is five inches larger in diameter and provides for faster crop acceleration into the rotor cage.

Clean Grain Sample

The patented Cross Flow cleaning system now self-levels automatically, up to a 14% slope, preventing valuable crop losses. The fan's diameter has been increased for greater air volume, and the cleaning area and active grain pan now provide 43% more cleaning area.

Matched Capacity

The feeder-house is a full 54" wide and takes full advantage of the extra capacity of the new AFX rotor. This ensures the crop material flows smoothly through the machine with no restrictions or slowdowns along the way.

New Drive Systems

The new Power Plus Drive systems provide a dedicated drive for the rotor and a separate one for the feeder. This continuously variable transmission (CVT) design offers the efficient power transfer of a mechanical transmission with the convenience of hydraulic, variable speed control. ALL WITHOUT BELTS!

AXIAL-FLOW 27 yrs ROTARY LEADERSHIP CASE IH

See The New Case-IH AFX8010 Combine From Hoober At Pennsylvania's Ag Progress Days

The New AFX Rotor

The New AFX Rotor Can also be Retrofitted to 1600, 2100 & 2300 Combines

- Achieves up to 25% increased throughput
- Uses less HP than previous rotors
- More Aggressive than Previous Designs

- 330 Bushel grain tank capacity (largest in the industry)
- Unloading rate of 3 bushels per second
- Self-leveling sieve and grain pan for hillside application
- Continuously variable transmission (CVT) for rotor drive and feeder drive - NO BELTS!
- 375 HP, 10.3-liter, 24-valve, full-authority electronic engine.
- Backed by Hoober's 27 YEARS EXPERIENCE with Axial-Flow technology

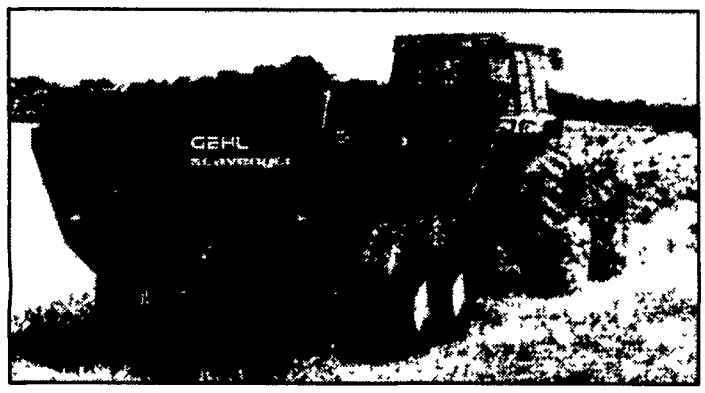
Proven Performer



Gehl's Scavenger® Spreader delivers the performance you need year after year, with increased durability and outstanding application control. All thanks to the following features.

- Heavy-duty round core auger with segmented paddles to blend manure. Powered both up and down to ram through heavy loads and break up bridging.
- Special "V" tank design to handle solid, heavy bedded, semi-solid, self-leveling and liquid manure.
- Adjustable auger and expeller speeds spread more types of manure.
- Variflow™ discharge featuring square-tooth expeller paddles for smooth, even spreading at the rate you choose.

Cash Rebates up to $2,000

The #1 Name In Feedmaking

Gehl Mix-All® portable grinder-mixers have been leading the industry for over 35 years. Now available with Gehl's famous hammermill or a commercial-grade roller mill to produce the best possible feed for your livestock.

- Total hydraulic control - Self-contained hydraulic system allows infinite speeds to power the discharge conveyor, unloading auger and in-feed attachments.
- Remote controls - Operate the unloading conveyor from the tractor seat or from the rear of the machine.
- Electronic scales - For precise ration weighing.
- Customize your machine - With a wide variety of options and attachments.

MF 451 Tractors

BIG TRACTOR PERFORMANCE. SMALL TRACTOR PAYMENTS.

With 45 PTO hp and hydraulics that out-pump the competitors by as much as 50%, the MF 451 has the power you need to push, pull or lift most anything on your farm. And, with a turning radius of 10 feet, the MF 451 is nimble enough to negotiate even the tightest spots.

- 48 hp Perkins Fastram diesel engine
- Available in 2- or 4-wheel drive
- 22.4 gpm hydraulic flow - as much as 50% higher than competitors
- Standard 2-spool auxiliary hydraulic valve
- 8F x 2R sliding gear transmission
- 3,748-lb. capacity 3-point hitch, with standard telescopic stabilizers
- Spacious, semi-flat operator platform
- Deluxe spring-suspension seat with retractable seat belt

WHAT TO DEPEND ON. MASSEY FERGUSON

THERE'S ONLY ONE WAY TO IMPROVE ON THIS TRACTOR.

It's hard to imagine that we could improve on the Massey Ferguson GC2300. With its powerful 22.5 hp liquid-cooled diesel and a beefy 18.7 hp PTO, the GC2300 sub-compact tractor tackles big jobs with ease, ably assisted by a full complement of attachments like mowers, loaders, scrape blades and more. But, now, for a limited time, your Massey Ferguson dealer has found one way to make the GC2300 even better - 0.0% APR financing. So, you get imcomparable performance - and a monthly payment you can live with.

*Offer expires 9/30/03. 0.0% APR for 36 months, with approved credit from AGCO Finance, on all Massey Ferguson compact tractors and compact tractor attachments (purchased in conjunction with the qualifying compact tractor models) at your participating Massey Ferguson dealer.

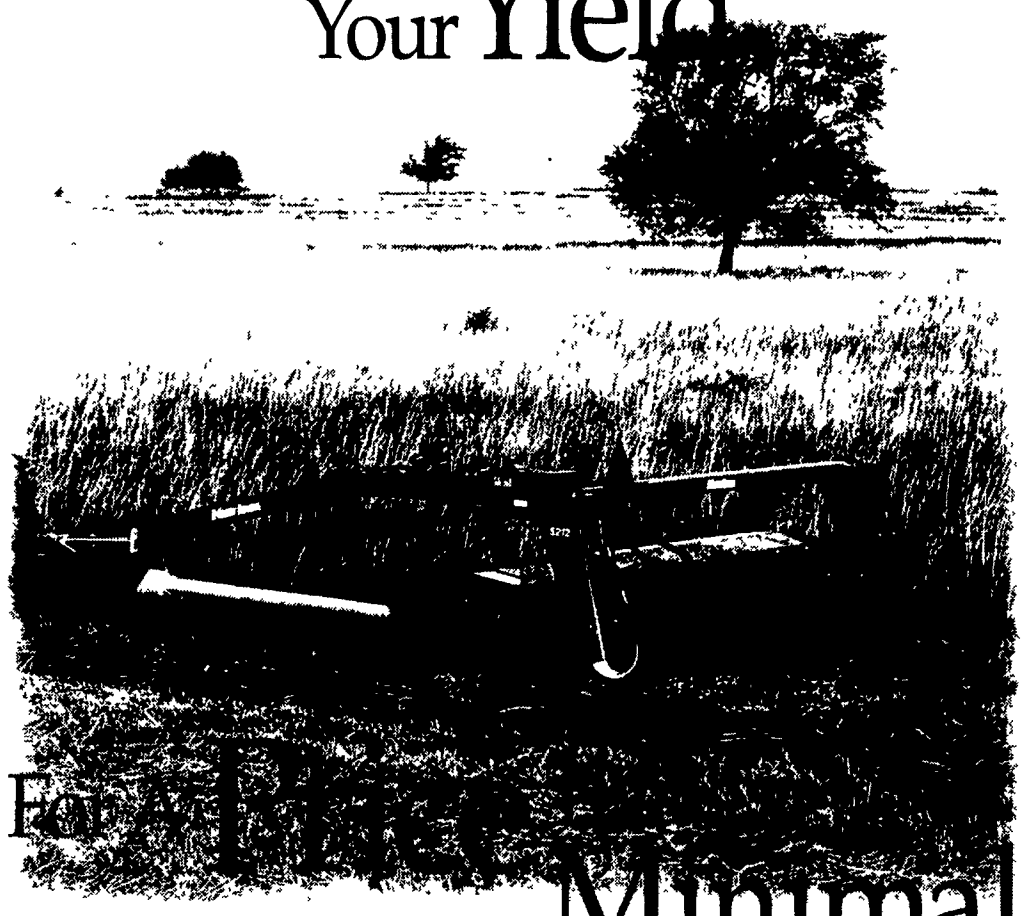
Maximize Your Yield Potential For A Minimal



When it comes to maximizing hay's Relative Feed Value and Crude Protein, no other disc mower conditioner outperforms the New Idea® 5212. And no other gives you as much value. Its high-speed cutterbars glide through fields quickly and easily, while the Ti-Cor® Conditioning Rolls gently condition the stems, speeding drydown without damaging the leaves.

A reliable design keeps you mowing and conditioning year after year. With the segmented cutterbar driveshaft, a New Idea innovation, the cutterbar is truly modular, which makes for easy maintenance.

Visit your AGCO® New Idea dealer today for a look at the disc mower conditioner that'll exceed your expectations - not your budget.

Cherry Grower Protects Crop With Tunnels

MORGANTOWN (Chester Co.) — Approximately 35 growers recently attended a meeting at Weaver's Orchard, Morgantown, to see cherries growing under Haygrove high tunnels. The meeting was hosted jointly by Ed Weaver and Ralph Cramer, Haygrove's eastern U.S. manager, Elizabethtown.

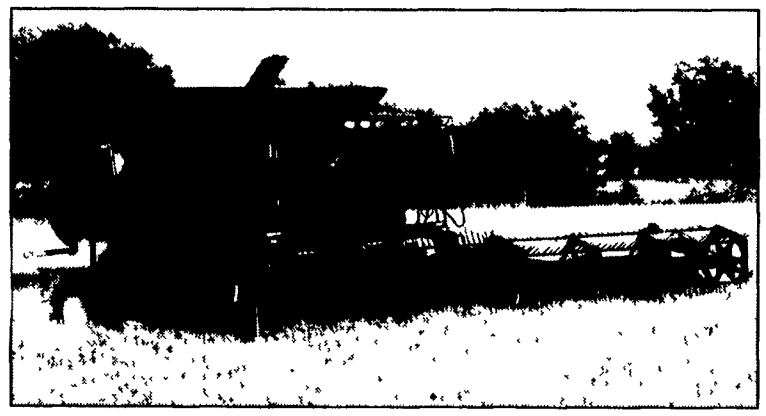
The twilight event highlighted the benefits gained from using this unique system of multi-bay, field-scale tunnels to protect cherries. Ed Weaver covered .6-acre of mature, dwarf cherry trees growing on Gisela 5 and 6 root stock. He's the first grower in the U.S. to protect a cherry crop with Haygroves.

New Case IH Combine Provides Increased Productivity

RACINE, Wis. — Gentle Axial-Flow® threshing comes together with the industry's highest productivity design in the all-new, Class VII-plus Case IH AFX8010 Axial-Flow combine.

"Producers no longer need to choose between a superior grain sample and a faster harvest," says Terry Snack, product specialist for Case IH combines. "They'll get both with the new Case IH AFX8010 combine."

For those farmers and custom harvesters constantly battling the clock and adverse conditions at harvest time, the newest addition to the Axial-Flow family can cover all the acres they need. The AFX8010 provides up to 40 percent more productivity than the Class VI Case IH 2388 combine.



The new Case IH AFX8010 Axial-Flow combine in wheat.

Increased productivity begins with the industry's largest grain tank at 330 bushels, fastest unloading rate at three bushels per second, and largest cleaning area at 10,075 square inches, not to mention the 4,236-square inch active grain pan.

Increased harvesting capacity demands increased power, and the AFX8010 delivers with a 10.3-liter, 24-valve, full-authority electronic engine. Rated at 375 horsepower (hp), the Case IH engine grows 25 hp in tough situations, and gains an additional continuous 40 hp during on-the-go unloading to maintain ground speed under load.

"The real key to the AFX8010's productivity advantage is one of the founding principles of Axial-Flow design matched capacity," Snack explains. "Just like the Axial-Flow 2366 and 2388, the feeder house for the AFX8010 is sized to match the ability of the machine, ensuring smooth crop flow with no bottlenecks."

The AFX8010 feeder is 54 inches wide, compared to the 2388, which measures 45.8 inches. A redesigned, bolt-in rock trap eliminates the chain drive and need for rear ballast weights. In addition, the optional Terrain Tracker feeder will pivot five degrees from side to side to follow ground contours and maximize harvest efficiency.

Blue Ball Bank Hires Ag Lender/VP For Berks Co.

BLUE BALL (Lancaster Co.) — Scott Hauseman of Sinking Springs was recently hired as an Agricultural Lender/VP for the Berks County Region of Blue Ball National Bank. This position is responsible for developing a portfolio of commercial loans for production farms and agricultural related businesses.

Scott has a Bachelor Degree in Agricultural Business Management from Penn State University. He has also received certification from the Northeast School of Agri-Lending.

Scott has over 17 years experience in the agricultural industry including retail and agri-finance. Prior to joining the bank, he worked for Wachovia Bank as vice president of the Agri-finance Department. He also worked for Agway, Inc. as a facility manager and department manager.

Everlast is stronger.
Everlast makes metal roofs and sides that are substantially stronger than it's competition. Everlast II does not buckle as easy during erection, less popping and buckling while walking on it. Higher wind and snow loads. More attractive.

Announcing

Crude Soy Oil Now Available

With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer soybean oil as an animal nutrition product. Processing the soybeans ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

Crude Soybean Oil

A product of Keystone's expelling process, this oil can be used in a wide variety of on farm applications Crude soy oil is a natural alternative to animal fats and provides needed energy in various rations

Uses of Crude Soy Oil Include:

- Use as a high energy feed ingredient in swine and poultry diets
- Especially useful in sow lactation diets, pig starter and grow/finish diets.
- Used as an added energy source in broiler, turkey and layer feeds
- Can be used for dust control purposes
- Can be used as a lubricant for feeding systems

Advantages of Crude Soy Oil:

- Use as a direct replacement for animal fat.
- Vegetable based product
- Holding tank does not need to be heated if temperature is above 30 degrees, which reduces storage and handling costs compared to animal fat
- Bulk delivery, partial loads available direct to farm by Keystone Mills.
- Customer may pick up to save delivery costs.

Other Soy Products Available:

- Keystone offers Golden Pro 46 XP which is 46% protein - 6-7% oil, Golden Meal 40 which is 40% crude protein with 18% oil

Keystone Mills Soybean Exchange Program

- We will take your soybeans in trade for Golden ProXP 46, Golden Meal 40
- Contact Keystone Mills for details on our soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products.

Northumberland County
This is two farms by same owner which can be sold separately The one farm of 132 acres is a modern dairy with 153 free stalls and a double 8 DeLaval milking parlor There is room for expansion This farm is level and very fertile. They have not needed commercial fertilizer for at least 7 years
The other farm is presently quarter horses, and this land is identical to farm #1. This one has 113 acres with most of it tillable. The residence is unique, having been built in 1803, and #1 was built in 1830. Both have 5 bedrooms and modern baths. There is a 24' by 80' silo on each, as well as many other pluses. The second would make a beautiful beef farm or make a dairy here as well. Priced separately or both together as a package deal. Call today.

Central Northumberland Co. 71 acre Amish equipped dairy farm. The setting is ideal, excellent soils, beautiful 3 bedroom farm house w/modern kitchen, Parquet oak floors and lots of excellent living area. There is a large horse barn, milk stable, implement shed and much more. Let me give you a private tour. You can have settlement now to honor your tax deferred exchange with possession at a later date. I'll handle those details for you. It won't last long - it's priced right.

Bradford County, 2 New Opportunities
I have just listed a large modern dairy with lots of ground. There is multiple housing, great location and the possibility for you to buy a turnkey operation also is a plus. Could be rather quick possession or let's do an IRC 1031 Tax Deferred Exchange and keep your investment intact from the sale of your present property.

Opportunity #2: Over 100 acres of good farmland with bordering woodland and wooded patches rich in game and the elevation for building a hunting lodge or permanent residence surrounded by the farmland and neighboring tracts of woodland makes this a great place for retirement also. Big rack deer, bear and lots of turkey abound. Priced right. It should sell quickly. Call me for a private showing

LANCASTER FARMING

Breeding Percherons has been a part of the Allebach family's life for years. Pictured are three generations of Allebachs: from left, Abraham Allebach at the halter of the farm's top stallion, King Cong, along with his son Gerald and Gerald's son Abraham, 3. The stallion was premier sire of North America in 2002 and has many champion and reserve, including national champion, titles. Photo by Michelle Kunjappu

SPRING MILLS (Centre Co.) — Abraham and Gerald Allebach must have a natural talent, or done their homework, or put in out-of-class time, as they studied draft horses.

From unlikely careers in dairy farming and selling cars, the Allebachs, along with their wives, Mary and Melissa, and families have built a veritable Percheron empire — 70 to 100 top horses of the breed — on their combined 400-acre farm in Spring Mills.

Let the numbers speak for themselves: since the family began exhibiting their Percherons on a consistent basis in 1972, Windermere Farms has 15 individual animals that have won all-American titles at least once, totaling 23 titles from the farm's own horses.

Center Gets Equine Athletes Back On Track

KENNETT SQUARE (Chester Co.) — Almost all athletes cope with injuries.

With an equine athlete, however, diagnosing and treating a full-grown, mind-of-their-own horse that can't tell the doctor where it hurts may prove to be a challenge.

Fortunately New Bolton Center's Scott Equine Sports Medicine Building, which began operating summer 2002, is equipped with veterinarians familiar with injuries and the technology to diagnose and track their patient's problem.

The new facility includes two exam rooms and two holding stalls for ultrasonographic and cardiac evaluation of patients and a padded stall for treatment

BLACKSBURG, Va. — As they enter the new breeding season, mare owners are forced to make an important decision: Which stallion should they breed to their mare?

Thousands of potential stallion choices bombard them daily, from homemade ads posted on tack room walls to those slick productions seen in the pages of glossy magazines.

How does the mare owner decide which stallion is suitable for

Windermere Farm

At the World Percheron Congress in Kansas City in 1995, the Allebachs took home 13 first place honors, a record.

The farm's founding sire, Black Home Duke, was the premiere sire of North America for 10 years.

At the World Percheron Congress in Lexington, Kentucky, in October 2002, Windermere Farms came away as world champions.

The family also checked in with among the top ten breeders in the nation in numbers of Percherons registered in 2002.

Evidently, the high-headed, eye-catching horses of Windermere Farm are quality animals.

A Dairy Background

Actually, horses have been part of the Allebachs' lives since Gerald was young, however standardbreds and a variety of other breeds found their homes on the dairy farm long before Percherons became the focus.

In 1962 Abraham moved to Centre County from Montgomery County to began a dairy farm. He also bred standardbred horses, along with having a wide variety of horses on the farm — "you name it, we had it," said Gerald Allebach.

When Allebach was seven years old, Abraham purchased the family's first pair of Percherons, a pair of black mares.

The mares piqued an interest in the Allebach family.

"We went to draft horses because they fit our lifestyle, values, and family farm picture better than going off to the racetrack," he said.

"When I was a little kid, I thought we were doing this to make better horses," said Allebach, who quickly points out that the family is very focused on improving the breed.

However, "to my dad, it was about teaching us kids to reach our full potential. (Gerald has an older brother and younger sister).

"It's a very special way to grow up. We're raising our children the same way."

Allebach is joined by his wife, Melissa, who also helps on the farm, along with their sons Jared, 13; Jesse, 11; and Abraham, 3.

The family began to acquire more animals and breed and show their horses. In 1987 Abraham sold the cows and began to fill the farm's 400 acres With draft horses.

Gerald spent 12 years in the car dealership business but has returned to help with the Percheron farm in addition to managing a nearby Haflinger operation.

Breeding Program

"God is the architect but we try to make good crosses and good breeding decisions," said Allebach.

An artist at heart, Abraham often drew horses, which Allebach attributes to being "a huge part of our success, because he had in his mind's eye what we wanted," said Allebach.

Allebach believes that Abraham was one of the first, if not the first, to ship semen for Percherons.

For his years of service in improving the Percheron breed, Abraham Allebach will be inducted into the Percheron Hall of Fame in Fredericktown, Ohio in October.

In 1984 Abraham had picked out a young Percheron colt, Black Home Duke, from Ontario that would propel the farms breeding program to a new level, according to Allebach.

The stallion "took our breeding program from good to great," he said.

Last year, Black Home Duke's son King Cong took over. His reasonable $750 breeding fee, or $500 for two or more mares, is to allow the stallion to breed a large number of mares "and do a better job for the whole breed," said Allebach.

Another part of the team effort, Melissa has helped to move the operation forward, according to Allebach. She persuaded him to get an ultrasound to use on the farm's mares, he said.

The Allebachs begin breeding mares mid February through June. Ideally the foals would be born early in the year so they are strong and ready for the winter, besides being larger more filled out in the show ring than their younger counterparts.

Foaling begins in January and runs through the end of June, since "we have older mares who are great producers" that may have a little trouble breeding back earlier but the Allebachs "give them time and allow them to foal later," he said. "Most of them have produced many generations."

"We geld a lot of young stud colts because we don't want to let a stallion breed a mare that's not as good or better than his own sire," he said.

A stallion should have a near-perfect mother, good conformation, a good attitude, and trainability. The Allebachs also look carefully at the animal's siblings "to see how they turned out," said Allebach.

"We're tough about our mare families. When we look at a pedigree, we're looking sometimes clear off the back of the paper. We don't want to produce any one-hit wonders — they have to be the real thing to go on with."

"Magnificent"

In the Percheron show ring, "the bigger the better," said Allebach.

The horses should also carry their heads high and proudly, have long necks, and trot high — all contributing toward the look that Melissa sums up as "magnificent," said Allebach.

"We've watched the Percheron breed go from a nice sound, quality horse to a very exciting show horse."

Although they display the steady temperament that is characteristic of draft horses, Percherons "are spirited," he said, which may lend to their popularity as show animals.

In the show ring sound conformation, large size, spirit, and front- and hind end action are a part of a judge's evaluations.

The Allebachs may show their horses in a 6-horse harness hitch. The purchased a handmade harness and built their own wagon that features a flashy patent leather and chrome finish.

Again, "it's a team effort to train and fine-tune the horses," said Allebach.

Although the Allebachs have, of late, favored black horses for their show ring string, traditionally the breed has been dominated by greys, as confirmed by old paintings and crude drawings.

For example, many European knights portrayed in paintings are often riding a gray or white horse, according to information from the Percheron Horse Association of America.

When the war horse no longer became necessary, the French began to look toward their draft horses to pull heavy stage coaches. The light colored grays and whites were preferred because of their visibility at night.

Breed Origins

According to the Percheron Horse Association of America, the breed derives its name Le Perche, an old province of France.

From the time of a war horse, to a stage coach horse to an animal used to pull "omnibuses," the public transport of the day, the breeders of Le Perche bred their horses to fit the need.

Later the design of the breed changed as horses were called on to move heavy loads from docks and railheads.

On the American front, after the Civil War was over and the country began to grow, strong horses again proved to be in demand. Consequently Americans began to visit Europe to buy seed stock, and began importing animals from Normandy in 1839.

As importations grew, buyers looking for the best horses found the horses of Le Perche.

In the 1880s almost 5,000 stallions and more than 2,500 mares were imported to America from France, mostly from Le Perche.

Because of changing economics in America, and as machines replaced draft horses, the low point in Percheron registrations came in 1954 when just 85 head were recorded.

It was a relative handful of people dedicated to the breed that kept the Percheron alive. They were aided in this by the thousands of Amish farmers throughout the country who stuck with the draft horse as their source of power.

Registrations totaled 1,088 in 1988, ten years later that had grown to 2,257, according to the Percheron Horse Association of America.

of equine patients with cardiac arrhythmias. An exercise physiology lab with a high-resolution electron microscope, a conference room, reception area and offices complete the facility.

After groundbreaking on March 31, 2001, the building named after supporters Almira and Hardie Scott, was dedicated June 29, 2002 and has been in operation ever since.

The facility includes four doctors performing ultrasound and cardiology, two working in exercise physiology and several technicians. Additionally, residents and students rotate through the facility to learn the procedures performed there.

More than 6,000 horses are treated every year by the sports medicine department at the New Bolton Center — approximately 2,200-2,4000 in ultrasound and cardiology in the sports medicine facility. Although horse athletes of all types come to the new facility, the majority are Thoroughbreds and Standardbred race horses, along with hunters, jumpers, eventers and dressage horses.

Horses come mostly from surrounding states, however, they also travel from as far away as California or Canada. The center has an extensive cardiac diagnosis and treatment facility for large animals, and is a leading center of its kind in the U.S. according to Dr. Olga Seco, lecturer in cardiology and ultrasound.

The horse owners may also travel the distance to get a second opinion, said Seco.

An ultrasound of a horse's leg helps New Bolton doctors advise owners on treatment and care of their animal. "Because people travel quite far, a local veterinarian may do follow-up and check-ups," said Sophy Jesty, fellow in sports medicine and imaging at the center.

After trimming the animal's leg and placing the ultrasound transducer on the horse's leg, a black-and-white image shows the operator the soft tissue structures of the area. The veterinarian will watch closely for tendon enlargement, an abnormal shape, and dark regions within tendons or ligaments that indicate fiber disruption.

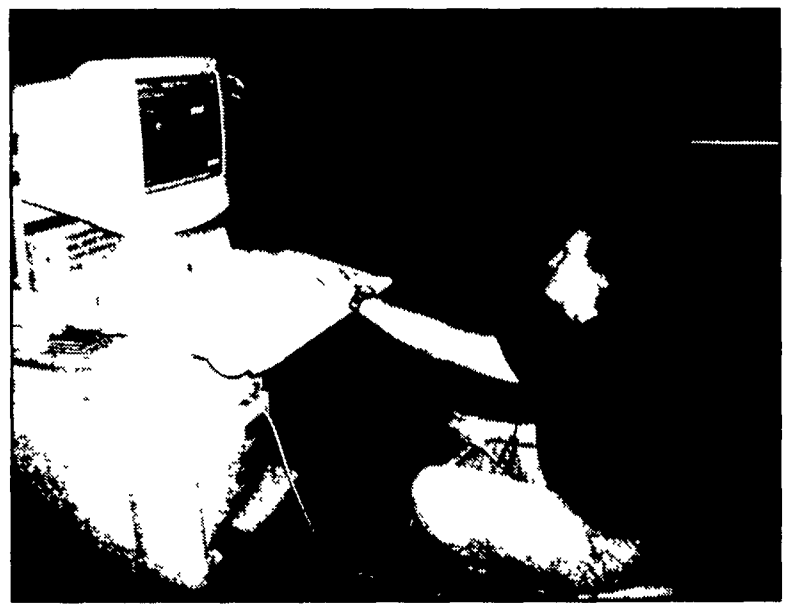
Injuries usually occur when the animals are training or racing, when there is more strain than normal on the horses' legs. Over training or the horse simply taking a "funny step," according to Jesty, can cause injury or tendonitis, inflammation of the tendon.

The most conservative treatment, and one advised often, is simply rest, said Jesty. If the injury is more severe, there are several medical or surgical treatments that may improve healing. One surgical treatment for more severe cases is "tendon splitting," putting small holes in the center of the tendon to allow the hematoma within the tendon to drain, a procedure that the veterinarians perform at the center.

A new less invasive treatment modality that is performed at the center, with pretty good results for certain injuries, is high en extractorporal shock wave therapy.

However "of all of the options, the cornerstone of treatment is rest," she said. Since the procedure is not painful to the horse, they are only sedated "based on temperament," said Jesty. "The ultrasound doesn't bother them but sometimes they get impatient."

An ultrasound just of the tendon may take only 15-20 minutes, however, if the case is more complicated an ultrasound may take a few hours.



This horse stands quietly, lightly sedated, as Dr. Sophy Jesty performs an ultrasound of the horse's tendon, a typical procedure at the equine sports medicine center.

As she ultrasounds, Seco turns the ultrasound transducer to view the fibers longitudinally to check for healing. After evaluating the horse based on ultrasound results, she may recommend putting the horse slowly back into training.

"The horses start very slowly, jogging five minutes every day for a month," she said. After that month the horse will be rechecked to make sure that the tendon healing is progressing. She will look for a stable or decrease size of the tendon, and increased tendon echogenicity and fiber pattern. The tendon fibers will become longer and more parallel as they heal, but will never be exactly the same as they were before the injury, Seco said.

Once the lesion is identified, the veterinarian will take pictures and measurements. These records serve as a point of reference for the next time the horse's leg is checked for progress. The ultrasound is videotaped and digitized.

The ultrasound equipment is used mostly for leg evaluation, but also to evaluate the lungs if the horse has pneumonia or the abdominal cavity area if the horse has colic or suspicion of abdominal absecess or neoplasia.

The machines may also be used to look at bumps, laceratoins, eyes or at a developing foal in a pregnant mare.

"We have a high-risk pregnancy program for a mare that may have problems at end gestation, and we monitor those fetuses with ultrasound every week," Seco said.

Ultrasound is also used in foals to detect internal problems, umbilical infections or fractured ribs, a common occurrence that happens during the birthing process.

Also part of the equine sports medicine center is the high-speed treadmill, which helps diagnose horses that have been turning in lackluster performances. The horse is evaluated at rest while he is being worked on the treadmill. Although the treadmill is a part of the sports medicine center, it has been in operation for several years.

Besides a sonogram of the animals' legs, veterinarians at the sports medicine facility can do an ultrasound of the heart, an echocardiogram. The operator can obtain several different views of the chambers and valves of the horses' heart, and evaluate the cardiac size and function.

Color flow Doppler detects blood flow — whether the blood is coming or going — and color codes it. High-velocity flow will be a different color, for instance, than slower flow. "It can detect leakages in valves that will cause cardiac enlargement," Seco said.

The echocardiogram, as well as the other ultrasound exams, is also taped and digitized so that the veterinarian may go back to reevaluate the horse's exam. The tape is also used in lectures and presentations for the students, said Seco.

The facility also houses other important equipment for diagnosis of cardiovascular pathologies such as electrocardiography to monitor animals with cardiac arrythmias, radiotelemetric electrocardiography to monitor animals with cardiac arrythmias during treatment or perform exercising electrocardiograms, a Holter monitor system to perform an electrocardiogram in a patient during a 24 to 48 hour period and a machine to pperfrom blood tests specific to detect cardiac disease.

Perfect Foal

his or her mare, and what are the odds of producing that "perfect" foal?

Evaluating The Mare

The first step for the mare owner is often the toughest one: an honest evaluation of the mare and breeding goals. What is the reason the mare should be bred at all?

Does she possess some qualities that make her genetic material valuable? Is the breeding goal to produce an elite performance horse or simply raise a young animal? Will the foal be marketed early in life, or kept on the farm?

Mare owners need to take a good hard look at their breeding stock and breeding goals before they begin choosing potential sires for that mare's next foal. Only then can they move on to choosing a stallion.

Choosing A Stallion

When selecting a stallion, the mare owner must realize that there is no guarantee of success, but he or she can dramatically improve their odds of producing that special foal by consideration of four P's: Phenotype, Performance, Pedigree and Progeny.

• Phenotype: While the stallion's entire genetic makeup, or genotype, is generally invisible to the mare owner, we can gauge a lot about the stallion by what we can see, or his phenotype.

The Perfect Foal

In this sense, phenotype means the stallion's outward appearance, such as his color, size, conformation and movement. Conformation traits tend to have higher heritability than movement traits, and thus have a higher correlation from one generation to the next.

Phenotypic information can be obtained from a visual inspection of the stallion, in hand and under saddle The phenotype of the stallion can be compared to that of the mare, and potential problems brought to light.

Breeders should be cautious though, and not assume that a stallion can fix serious problems with a mare's conformation or movement.

• Performance: An excellent way to determine a stallion's abilities is to evaluate his performance record.

While much of a horse's potential can be altered by environmental factors such as training or nutrition, stallions that consistently perform well in high-caliber competition generally pass this aptitude on to their progeny.

• Pedigree: Investigation of a stallion's pedigree will give the mare owner background information on his genetic makeup. Some bloodlines are known for excellent properties, such as jumping prowess, dressage ability, cow sense, speed or a host of other desirable qualities.

Breeders should take note, however, that the more generations they travel from the stallion in question, the less influence those ancestors have on a sire. Pedigree evaluation is especially important in young sires, who have not yet accumulated performance winnings or sired foals of their own.

• Progeny: While a particular stallion may be outstanding in terms of phenotype, performance and pedigree, the wise breeder knows it is not the stallion they're interested in, but rather that stallion's offspring.

Breeders should attempt to visit or evaluate as many offspring as possible, and if possible, obtain show or inspection results for those progeny who are of appropriate age.

When evaluating foals, it is also important to consider the dam, as she contributed half of the genetic makeup of the youngster.

Every mating is like playing the lottery. The element of chance can never be eliminated, but with careful consideration of the four P's of stallion selection, mare owners can easily increase their odds of producing the perfect foal.

When selecting a stallion, the mare owner can dramatically improve their odds of producing that special foal by considerg phenotype, performance, pedigree and progeny.

Devon Horse Show Features 10 Days Of Diverse Competition

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

DEVON (Chester Co.) — Ten days of competition between top riders and their elite horses, 235 classes, and more than $316,000 of prize money is nothing new to the Devon Horse Show and Country Fair, May 22-31.

The event, which benefits the Bryn Mawr Hospital (it has donated more than $10.4 million to the hospital over the past eight decades) was first conducted in 1896.

That one-day show included 29 classes and a first-prize offering of $10. By 2003 the show drew the entries of 2,500 horses, however only those animals that qualified could compete.

Conducted in the town of Devon, the event would not be complete without the fair adjacent to the Dixon Oval. The fair features rides, prizes, and food, plus boutiques that offer clothing or home decorations to fair-goers.

High-stepping Hackney ponies also competed during the event.

The open jumper division of the show, with classes almost every evening of the event, attracts leading riders from throughout the U.S.A. Junior jumpers also compete, along with amateur owner jumpers. New this year to the jumper division was the pony jumper classes.

The carriage pleasure driving, ladies' side saddle, local hunters, and coaching competitions were Sale.

Ben Nolt, Grantville, donated his auctioneering services for the event at the Ag Arena at University Park, which showcased Penn State's equine science and breeding programs. The horses were bred, raised, and trained at the university horse farm. The sale catalog is available on the web at http://www.das.psu.edu/wcm/IndexDB.cfm?pid=152. The auction was accompanied by a day full of demonstrations and exhibits.

This year's quarter horse auction was a watermark of sorts, notes Nancy Diehl, assistant professor of equine science. "For many years, the annual sale of Penn State's 2-year-old quarter horses was carried out by interested buyers submitting letters of offer," she said. "But this year, the sale was conducted as a live auction that was the culmination of a day meant to promote the entire equine science program."

Students taking the spring semester equine and livestock merchandising class, who learned about merchandising livestock through guest speakers and class discussions, got hands-on experience preparing for and participating in the sale.

"Students were involved in promotion, advertising, preparation of the horses, maintenance on the facilities and handling many of the sale-day responsibilities, including presenting the horses to potential buyers," said Diehl.

"Students in the horse handling and training class linedrove, lunged, and rode the auctioned horses during the morning, offering a unique opporunity for potential buyers to observe the temperament, athletic ability, and training of the horses being offered."

Though the sale horses were highlighted, equine staff and students also provided tours of the Penn State Horse Farm and made available for inspection the sires, dams, and siblings of

Have A Story? Write It Down

Life Lessons Inspired Author's Horse-Centered Book

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — "I should write a book."

Perhaps you've said these words to youself, or maybe someone has encouraged you to write your life's experiences for future generations.

Between the moment of inspiration and seeing your words on pages between a book cover, however, lies a long road of writing, thinking, revising, rechecking, discussing, and more writing.

In spite of these challenges, Kathleen Anthony decided to take that road and now has "Lessons In Grace: My Journey to Healing and Faith Through the Gift of a Horse" to show for it.

After receiving as a gift "Dad's Lady Grace," an Arabian filly in November 1995, Anthony's journey — and story — began.

The high-spirited horse quickly began teaching her lessons about trust, self-protection, panic, worry, self-sufficiency, and willfulness — lessons that Anthony could parallel in her own life.

"At the time, I was working as a secretary at Elizabethtown Brethren in Christ and every time I would learn something spiritual through working with the horse I'd go in to church and share it," she said.

Her friend Wendy urged her to write these ideas down, however Anthony's thoughts made it to paper only as titles and a few short thoughts, she said.

Later, after noticing an advertisement for short stories that touched the soul about horses, Anthony sent a story in that was published. "That's when I thought "maybe this is something I ought to pursue," she said.

The book began to take shape after Christmas 2001. "I had written notes that I kept on scraps of paper just so I would remember the lesson," she said.

Anthony had "dabbled at writing and poetry through the years," however as a church secretary most of her commercial writing consisted of composing concise blurbs for the bulletin.

"When I actually sat down at my computer and I got five pages, I thought 'wow, this is really great,'" she said. "Then it just seemed like God just poured words into my mind and it just kept on going.

Kathleen's husband Carl also enjoys trail riding. The couple met on horseback in 1967 and have been riding together ever since.

"I thought I had the main thrust of the book done by February — that I had most of it done," said Anthony. However she found that the road that the book would take continue for months.

It was that February that Grace kicked her "and I was ready to scrap the whole thing." In spite of her discouragement with the horse, Anthony found that new chapters had yet to be added to the book.

"I never dreamed that I would learn the major lessons, the life-changing lessons, after that," she said.

Her major lesson, according to Anthony, would be coming to grips with, and accepting, God's grace. After learning that lesson through the help of friends, family, and the horse, Anthony finished up the book by August, spending "every little extra" moment at the computer.

Once the book went to the publisher, changes, revisions, and reworking were necessary. "I put in a few 14-hour days in front of the computer, until I could hardly see any more, but I couldn't tear myself away.

"I'd wake up in the middle of the night with thoughts and couldn't get them out of my head." She'd scribble notes to herself so when the morning came the thought would be captured, and begin again the next day.

A self-described "disciplined person," she said, "I never set a schedule for writing. I was just compelled to write until it was done. I would think it was done and then a week or two would go by and there was more things to add," she said.

"Some of the things were actually experienced during the writing process so there were fresh new things to add."

Even after she began working with the publisher, her "insecurities and worry that I would say something that would upset somebody" nearly caused her again to turn back from the writing process.

However "I'm really glad I hung in there with it," she said. In September, Anthony contacted the publisher, the same woman who had published her short story.

"I sent her the manuscript and she said, 'sure, let's go for it,'" said Anthony. The publisher, based in California, also coached her in writing and revision.

"She was also a mentor," said Anthony. "She coached me when I was emotionally upset."

Via e-mail, the manuscript was shuttled back and forth several times between publisher and writer, then to a horse editor in Canada, who also made changes. "Even in some of those last revisions, new things came to me," she said.

The book went to the publisher in October 2002 and was at the printer by April 1, 2003.

Now printed, the book must be marketed. "Little by little, we're getting things going," said Anthony.

Besides sending press releases to Christian and horse magazines, she has contacted bookstores individually and plans to send review copies of the book to press review offices of large booksellers. She has also made fliers to distribute to stores.

Nevertheless, "I never wrote to make any money, I only wrote this book because I had a story to share because of all the lessons God taught me through the horse," said Anthony, who also hopes to help to comfort people who are struggling.

Although she has "always enjoyed writing," she has never taken specific courses or formal education for it.

"I didn't even know how to go about getting a book done," she said.

"I would encourage people that if they have something to write to write it, because you learn something about yourself and who you really are in the process."

Reorganizing and restructuring "made the book totally different," she said, as she had learned how to reorganize the book from the editor.

Up-front costs include the price of using the publisher's and editor's services, in addition to purchasing the book's ISBN number and the printing itself.

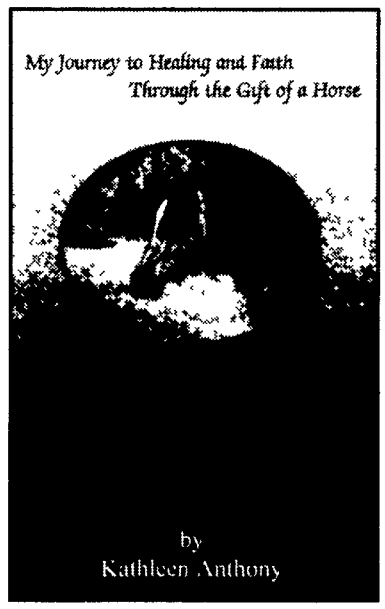
"It's not really an easy way to go," she said. Writers can, she said, simply write and then find a printer for the book, however she wanted guidance to write a professional-caliber book.

"Since I had no experience I wanted someone to coach me through he process," she said.

"I'm not worried about how many books it sells or doesn't sell. The people that need to read it will read it," she said.



This is a cover of Anthony's book.

To purchase the book, checks for $22.45 can made payable to Kathleen Anthony and sent to 1511 Grandview Road, Mount Joy, PA 17552. Pennsylvania residents add six percent sales tax.

The book is also available at Christian Light Bookstore in Elizabethtown or via the web at http://TheCompletePet.com., or by calling (800) 700-5096.

Devon Horse Show

also part of what drew competitors and spectators alike to the event. Additionally breeding classes, barrel racing, and carriage racing were a part of the Devon experience.

Devon also featured vaulting, the sport of gymnastics on a moving horses. The sport began in as a training technique so that soldiers could fight from any direction on the horse.

The Friendship Vaulting Team U.S.A. performed several times during the 10 days of the show. The routines feature compulsory moves and freestyle routines performed to music.

The coaching competitions drew competitors with shiny antique coaches and teams of high-stepping horses. As a mode of transportation the coach faded in England in the 1830s, when it was replaced by the railroad, according to Harvey Waller.

Several antique coaches, however, have been restored to their original beauty and competed in several classes.

Waller's own coach, made in England and raced in 1888, was a "subscription coach," where passengers paid by the trip. A clock to time the trip is still affixed to the coach.

Outside of the ring, blacksmith Joe Alfano works behind the scenes to make sure the equine athletes perform to the best of their ability.

Alfano may give the horses four new shoes, but more often he does repair work or replaces shoes worn from the competition.

Seated in the wagon is Robert Weaver of Weaver Enteprises, four-time champion of prior coaching competitions at Devon and 26-year veteran of the Devon show ring. Weaver, from Peoria, Illinois, brought seven Gelderlander geldings to compete. The breed, from Holland, combines power and common sense, according to one of Weaver's aides, Marie Martiz.

"Pony Joe" Alfano, as shown on the license plate, takes care of shoeing many hunters and jumpers during the competition.

Morris Kerr, Shelbyville, Kentucky, shines up harnesses for the evening's coaching event. Kerr is a trainer at Walnut Way Farm, which brought six Friesan geldings to the show. Kerr was readying for the "appointment class, so everything has to be spotless," said Kerr. The coach must also have extra halters, harness parts, or a tool kit — extras that a working carriage may have needed on the road, according to Kerr.

those offered for sale. Visitors were able to see the exceptional quarter horse stallion, Image of Shadow, recently donated to Penn State's breeding program by Scott and Marybeth Gordon.

"The breeding program at Penn State has been carefully crafted around its herd of quality broodmares and selection for athletic horses that can succeed in the show ring and also do well as all-around pleasure and recreational mounts," said Diehl. "The breeding program has served principally as a tool for teaching Penn State's equine science students all aspects of horse production and management."

The department offers undergraduate and graduate students from eight to 10 equine science courses a year, as well as independent study research projects and other animal science courses in reproduction, genetics, and nutrition that cover all livestock species.

Since his schedule "can get hectic — I can have 5-6 in waiting in line," Alfano warms and preshapes shoes.

There is "a lot of variation in what they (the horses) wear, depending on what part of the country" the owners are from. "It seems to be a territorial thing, what they're used to using."

Shoes may be "tapped out for calks," which means that Alfano puts holes in the shoes for calks, long tapered pieces pointing downward on the horse's shoe to prevent slipping. The calks are not worn other than in the soft medium of the show arena.

Although most of the horses come to Alfano to be shod, he does make occasional visits to the barn for the young or flighty horses.

"For the most part the horses have been around a lot and handled a lot and are used to being shod," he said. "I have the most problems with young horses. They see other horses, carriages, the ferris wheel, and a lot of new things here that they won't see anywhere else," he said.

Besides working at Devon, Alfano shoes horses at 20-25 other major horse shoes each year in Pennsylvania.

"Sir Gallahad" gets some attention from Mario Marquez and Albert Rodriguez, Honduras, after the horse has finished competing.
